Commuters can 'really fly' from Antioch

Metra service scheduled to start Aug. 19

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Commuters, mark your calendars for Monday, August 19. That's the official start-up date for the new Metra commuter train service along the Wisconsin Central Railroad from Antioch to downtown Chicago.

Antioch Mayor Marilyn Shineflug happily revealed the starting date by reporting a letter written to the appropriate village mayors by Metra Executive Director Philip Pagane, who issued the start-up date.

Although the date is still subject to change, it is the first official date issued since Metra changed the start-up date from this spring, only to change it again to the late summer or early fall.

The Village of Antioch set a completion date of its own for mid-July to complete the actual station and parking lot. Phase I will include parking for 68 cars with the ability to expand to 172 parking spaces in the future. Metra has already installed the loading platform along the tracks, and the village has begun initial grading work on the site.

Bids for the project went out this week on March 28. A provision in the bid contract will give preference to local contractors to build the $500,000 train station and parking lot. A contract is expected to be awarded April 1.

The appropriate infrastructure will also be added to allow for future commercial development on the site as well.

Metra officials are projecting three morning trains leaving Antioch every half hour for downtown Chicago and three evening trains returning every half hour from Chicago to Antioch. An afternoon train may be added in the future. Schedules will be submitted closer to the start-up date.

The 1-hour and 20-minute trip is expected to make 12 stops including Lake Villa, Round Lake Beach, Libertyville, Mundelein, Vernon Hills in Lake County and O'Hare International Airport.

Metra officials also said a one-way ticket from Antioch to Chicago would cost $5.80, while a monthly unlimited pass will cost $156.60 for the 53-mile commute.

Antioch stays silent on train whistle law

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Antioch is not yet jumping aboard the bandwagon of suburban communities opposing the mandatory train whistle act as set by the federal government.

Village officials will monitor the situation and take a wait-and-see approach as the discussion continues regionally.

The Federal Railroad Administration was set to enforce a mandatory train whistle law at every crossing as outlined in the Swift Rail Act, but a band of suburban communities in Cook and DuPage counties encouraged the FRA to postpone enforcement until a later date in 1997. Suburban leaders argue whistle blowing at frequent crossings in densely populated areas would rattle their residents all day and night and affect home values.

Waterway Agency may be forced to move again

Purchase negotiations stalled, building lease expires

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

In the light of their first year anniversary in the new location, Fox Waterway Agency officials announced they may have to move.

Chairman Dr. William C. Dam explained a glitch in state laws prohibits the agency from completing purchase of its new home.

A letter sent from the attorney of owner Ray Freeman, the former operator of the Hidden Cove Marina on the site at 45 S. Pistakee Lake Rd., states, "... you are hereby directed to surrender possession of the subject premises on March 31, 1996."

Point blank, the lease for option to buy is up, explained Attorney David Czekala. The lawyer stressed his client is in no way attempting to be harsh or unfair in the process. "Certainly we're not out to harm the Waterway Agency," said Czekala.

Though the certified letter was received Monday, the attorney said the agency was quite aware its lease was expiring.

The agency has been leasing the site with an option to buy, paying Freeman $4,500 a month in rent which comes out of user fees, according to officials. In the last six months an additional $2,500 penalty was tacked onto the rent, since the completion of the sale was not made in the first half year.

An agreement may be signed to stay on for four more months at $8,500 the first two months, and $7,000 the two months after.

While agency officials were unaware at the start of the sale, the state will not pay more than the assessed value of a property. Dam said they are willing to pay Freeman $656,250.

Dam said the agency is $30,000 to $40,000 apart from the purchase price of the former marina.

Stan Mill, finance committee chairman, reportedly told the agency the cost of moving now and again when a permanent site is purchased or built far exceeds the difference between the two amounts.

Czekala said negotiations could still be made. "Certainly Mr. Freeman and I would have a willing ear," the attorney explained. Dam said though Freeman did come down on the his initial price of $735,000 to $710,000 there still is no changing the state law. It would simply be illegal to pay Freeman what he wants out of state monies, said Dam.

Besides losing their home, the agency could forfeit any rights to the 5-percent earnest money of $35,000 given to Freeman's real estate agent at See WATERWAY page A10

Pet lovers return to town at 'Best Pets'

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Back by popular demand, one-time employees of the "other" pet store in Antioch have opened their own pet store under the title "Best Pets."

Between hand-fed birds and a full stock of puppies, Best Pets aims to please with service and a wide selection of pets and pet goods.

"We had a lot of customers who asked us to come back to town," said co-owner Linda Kader. She and co-owner Steve Dolloff worked at "the other pet store" on Main Street for more than 10 years before opening their own store in Lindenhurst two years ago. Their new Antioch store has been open for three weeks.

Located in the Antioch Shopping Plaza next to True Value, Best Pets will hold its official grand opening March 30 at 10 a.m. The grand opening ceremonies will include refreshments and a short performance by magician David Kelly. There will also be drawings for free gift certificates and an Easter basket.

Although many pet stores have eliminated offering dogs for sale, Best Pets will offer puppies of various breeds. Dolloff said pet stores have acquired bad reputations for selling sick dogs and many pet stores have given up on selling puppies.

Dolloff insists that all puppies at Best Pets will be examined by a veterinarian.

"We try to get the best puppies we can get, and we try to get them into homes within a week," Dolloff said.

Along the same lines, Best Pets offers a wide selection of birds from cockatoos to Quakers to African gray birds to love birds.

"You can hold any one of them," Kader said of the birds housed in a separate room of the pet store. "By hand-feeding them, you'll get a bird that loves you and is used to people."

The puppies are also socialized as they are rotated out of their cages every half hour.

"Kids love coming here to play with the puppies," Kader said.

In addition to birds and dogs, Best Pets offers a variety of cats, reptiles, fresh water and salt water fish, guinea pigs, rodents and the trendy hedgehog.

"We can't keep enough of them in stock," Kader said of the porcupine-like animal. "They have a cute face and they're interesting to watch."

Dolloff said Antioch's new pet store will specialize in offering a wide selection of pets and pet goods. "We'll either have it or we'll get it," Dolloff promised.

Kader added, "We just love what we're doing."

Besides, it's worth visiting the store to see "Casper" the store's mascot—a white-haired boxer—greet all the pet lovers and customers browsing through the store.

State Bank of Lakes adds new entrance, looks ahead

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

As the 101-year-old community bank attempts to become more customer friendly, a new walk-up window and entrance is in the works at the State Bank of the Lakes.

Construction has been ongoing in the south parking lot and the new four-teller walk-up window is expected to be open later this spring, preferably by the first of June.

Randy Miles, bank president, said the addition will provide a whole new entrance to the bank with no steps and electronic doors for seniors and people with disabilities.

"It will be the main entrance into the bank," said Miles, who noted that the addition will be in compliance with all the stipulations of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

Furthermore, Miles emphasized that the walk-up service aims to appeal to patrons, such as commuters who travel to and from work, who wish to do their banking after regular business hours.

"It will allow us to do different things and offer longer hours for walk-up," Miles said. He expects the walk-up window to be open until at least 7 p.m. on weekdays. The site will contain a night drop.

On another matter, Miles also hinted that the bank may be looking to open another branch site.

"We're keeping our eyes open," said Miles, who would not discuss details. "I have a couple of things on the drawing board."

The bank just opened its newest branch in Grayslake two years ago. Miles said that any future branches would be a full-service community bank much like the Grayslake site as well as the branch in Lindenhurst and the main facility in Antioch.

"We're going to be a community bank. As far as community banks go, we're one of the few of a dying breed," said Miles, comparing home-town community banks to large conglomerates which swallow up banks through mergers.

"We're a people bank," Miles said. "We like to know people by their names, not by their number."

GOP leader welcomes new committeemen

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Antioch Township Republican Party Chairman Lillian Golonka welcomed the new precinct committeemen elected to their posts.

In an unusual show of participation, there were nine precincts with contested races out of 15 precincts during the primary. Similarly, nine new committeemen will represent the Republican Party at their posts.

"I'm very happy with the new faces we are going to get, and I'm looking forward to working with them," said Golonka, who is the committeeman for Precinct 15.

The nine new committeemen include Sharon Oldenburger in Precinct 4, Jodie Eckert in Precinct 5, Joel Filiatreault in Precinct 7, Michael Mueller in Precinct 8, Gerald Zielenski in Precinct 10, Thomas Evert in Precinct 11, Taso Maravela in Precinct 12, Sid Parker in Precinct 13, and Linda Pedersen in Precinct 14.

"It looks like it's going to be a great group, and I hope we can work together," Golonka said.

Precinct committeemen have long been considered the foot soldiers of the party who spread the word at the grassroots level about party candidates seeking office.

Golonka noted Precinct 6 still remains open. She said a person will be appointed April 1 after the Republican Committee holds its convention to pick new officers.

"We have to look around for someone," Golonka said of the precinct that serves the Leisure Village area near Grass Lake School.

Republican precinct committee persons will convene April 1 at Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth for the Central Committee convention to pick new officers.

Golonka advised new committeemen to be alert to a future meeting to get acquainted.

New downtown park attracts quick attention

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Expect downtown Antioch to be a bustle of activity in the upcoming months.

Almost as quickly as the new wetlands park was announced, various planning meetings for the new park were set to begin in April.

Community Development Director Claude LeMere unveiled a vision to restore a 7-acre site along Sequoit Creek, behind downtown, between Skidmore Drive and Orchard Street.

He hopes to restore the stagnating creek and wetland area into two new ponds for ice skating and a large grassy area for pedestrian recreation and a band shell for outdoor concerts or open theater. The creek and wetlands restoration portion could be used as an educational destination for local schools, LeMere said.

Much of the restoration work will be led by the Army Corps of Engineers. Army Corps officials are expected to visit the site April 15 with representatives from Applied Ecological Services, the company hired to delineate the wetlands for the Army Corps.

"We're moving on this project immediately," said LeMere, who believes the restoration project can be completed within two years.

Furthermore, LeMere was expected to meet this week with business owners on the east side of Main Street. As part of the park project, LeMere hopes to expand the rear parking for business owners and eventual park goers. He also hopes downtown business owners will help revamp the back of their businesses which will face the new park.

LeMere said Community Action Now hired an architect to help business owners renovate the back of their stores.

LeMere will also be asking various do-good groups and organizations to mark April 20 as a day to help clean up the future park site.

"I want this to become a community project," LeMere said.

At the same time, Centegra Health Systems is close to presenting final site drawings to the village for its health care facility planned on 6 acres along Park Avenue and Skidmore Drive. Centegra is adjacent to the wetlands restoration park.

In light of the new park project, the downtown beautification project, and the new health care facility, a new commuter train station is being built two blocks away on Depot Street.

"We're going to see some neat stuff going on here over the next year," LeMere said.

Dist. 34 forms Educational Foundation

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

As the percentage of state dollars coming to school districts becomes smaller and smaller, Antioch Elementary School District 34 joins the growing list of school districts forming not-for-profit education foundations.

The District 34 board of education inducted the "District 34 Educational Foundation" for the purpose of accepting contributions, donations, gifts, and bequests from individuals, partnerships, corporations, associations, and other groups and businesses.

At the same time, the foundation will seek alternative ways to raise additional funds for the district through "creative" fund-raising measures. According to the foundation's bylaws, all donations and funds raised will help "enhance and supplement" the educational programs in District 34.

Foundation President Dr. Kathryn Oddsen noted that "in a time when Illinois school districts are experiencing decreases in general and discretionary educational funds, the need for creative fund-raising has never been greater."

Superintendent Dr. Daniel Burke said education foundations serve a variety of purposes and are becoming more popular with school districts.

"They're getting more popular, and I think it's in response to the tax cap," Burke said.

With the state-imposed tax cap of 5 percent or the current rate of inflation, school districts must seek voter approval through referendums for tax increases to help finance education for escalating enrollments, growing space needs, and increasing costs for technology.

While tax money funds those enterprises, foundations can help fill the gaps.

Burke said a foundation is one way to help school districts raise money, while relieving the burden on taxpayers.

"School districts are being asked to do more with less money, but we're sensitive to the taxpayers. We know taxes are high, and an educational foundation is one way to help," Burke said.

Furthermore, Burke said an education foundation opens the door to the business community to help support school efforts and build partnerships between businesses and schools.

"With prominent business people serving on the (foundation's) board, they can get a first-hand look of how the school operates," Burke said.

The foundation also aggressively seeks different ways to raise funds such as direct mailings, telethons, and other foundation-sponsored events. "The possibilities are unlimited," Burke said.

Initially, he said the funds raised through the foundation would help support fine arts programs and upgrade technology in the schools.

Gary Burnette, a school board member and foundation trustee, said forming a foundation is another indication of the district trying to remain fiscally responsible.

"We hope these donations earmarked to improve the quality of learning opportunities we offer will help students while relieving some of the burden on local taxpayers," Burnette said.

Other District 34 Educational Foundation officers include: Vickie Axton, vice president; Sally Gaca, secretary; and Roger Manderscheid, treasurer. Trustees include Burke, Garnet Carney, John Kakacek, Linda Pedersen, Laurie Stahl and Mary Turner.

Persons wishing to make a donation, payable to the District 34 Educational Foundation, may send it to Sally Gaca, Antioch Elementary School District 34, 850 Highview Drive, Antioch, IL 60002.

Police BEAT

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH

Driver crosses center line

Police arrested Kathleen Cerney, 40, of Antioch, for driving under the influence March 23. According to reports, police observed her cross the center line several times while traveling on Route 173. Police also said she ran off the road east of Grimm Road. On the scene, police said she could not locate her purse or her driver's license. Cerney refused a breath test. She will appear in Waukegan court April 16.

Teen nabbed with pot

Police arrested John King, 17, of Antioch, for possession of cannabis. According to reports, police observed King sitting on a bicycle March 22 in the parking lot of Hardees holding a cylinder-shaped item which appeared to be a "bong" used for smoking cannabis. When police arrived, King quickly concealed the bong in a knapsack and attempted to ride away. Police detected an odor of burnt cannabis on his clothing. King later admitted to using the bong to smoke the cannabis. After being charged, he was released on $75 recognizance bond and will appear in Grayslake court May 8.

High beams lead to arrest

On March 23, police stopped Robert Weiss, 37, of Antioch, for traveling with his high beam headlights on while driving south on Route 83. Weiss could not provide a driver's license, and police learned his license was suspended. He was charged with failure to dim headlights, driving with a suspended license and no insurance. He is scheduled for Grayslake court April 24.

Motorist fails to stop

Police arrested Richard Crowell, 41, of Antioch, for not stopping at a Stop Sign. During the early morning hours March 20, police observed Crowell drive past the Stop sign and Stop line on Depot Street at main Street. Police said he drove past the line and the pedestrian cross line before coming to a complete stop. Crowell provided police a judicial permit as a driver's license, but police learned the court-issue permit was not valid until March 23. He was charged with failure to stop and driving while suspended. Crowell was released and will appear in Grayslake court April 10.

Driver passes field tests

While responding to a complaint of a "possible intoxicated driver" on March 22, police arrested Todd Iwen, 33, of Fond Du Lac, Wis. He is also a temporary resident in Antioch. Police received a report of a possible intoxicated driver at McDonald's. Upon arriving to the scene, police observed Iwen exiting the parking lot with only one operating headlight. Iwen successfully completed field sobriety tests, but police learned his license was revoked in Wisconsin. He was charged with improper lighting and driving while revoked. He was released on recognizance bond and will appear in Grayslake court April 10.

Passing school bus not tolerated

Antioch police and a school bus driver did not take too lightly to an Antioch NAPA Auto Parts store driver passing a stopped school bus.

On March 20, a driver of a Head Start school bus witnessed a motorist pass his stopped bus after the bus's red lights were activated and the stop arm was extended.

Police eventually caught up with Patrick Kelly, 20, of Antioch, and charged him with passing a school bus.

According to reports, the 47-passenger yellow school bus was stopped in front of 1064 Main Street with a student loading the bus when a motorist drove by the bus. The bus driver said all "stop measures" were activated.

The bus driver described the vehicle passing the bus as a black Ranger and stopping at the Antioch NAPA Auto Parts store parking lot.

The driver reported the incident to police. Antioch police followed up and located the vehicle at NAPA parking lot. Police summoned Kelly and transported him to the police department, where the bus driver identified the offender.

Kelly told police he was traveling on Main Street en route to the village public works department to deliver some parts but never saw a bus.

After posting his driver's license, Kelly was released and will appear in Grayslake court April 10.—by KEVIN HANRAHAN

Fire burned about 4 acres of the Fourth Lake Fen Forest Preserve, but a quick response by Lake Villa firefighters prevented damage to homes neighboring the preserve.

The blaze started on March 22 at 7:45 a.m. and was extinguished about an hour and a half later, according to Frank Slazes, chief of Lake Villa Township Fire Department. One of the witnesses was Lindenhurst resident Fred Messmer. Messmer's backyard abuts Fourth Lake Fen.

"It came to within about 500 feet to the south (of his property)," Messmer said of the fire.

Messmer said the bigger smoke and fire was east of his cul-de-sac on Hillcrest Circle. He added the Lake Villa Fire Department's response was quick.

"The fire department was behind my neighbor with a tanker truck. They did an excellent job. The wind was blowing that day," Messmer said.

Slazes said the cause of the fire is unknown. However, he said it was unlikely that it would have been set by nature.

"We were lucky it wasn't that windy," Slazes said.

Messmer said there was another larger fire about two months ago. He added the fires usually occur in the fall and not at this time.

The fire department prevented the flames from reaching adjoining residential property.

There were no injuries from the blaze.

Antioch Fire Department assisted Lake Villa in extinguishing the flames.

Forest Preserve officials have yet to determine the damage to the wetland area.

The Easter Bunny has arrived at Downtown Antioch

Somebody better tell Peter Cottontail he can hippity hoppity all he wants but the Easter Bunny has already arrived in town. By special request from the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, the Easter Bunny has returned to Antioch. All you kids may visit with the Easter Bunny now through April 6 at Brans Nuts on Main Street on Fridays from 3 to 7 p.m., Saturdays and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. For a nominal fee you can even have your picture taken with him.

On April 6, the Antioch Parks and Recreation Dept. is once again sponsoring the Eggcellent Easter Adventure at Williams Park after the Easter Parade. The Adventure is open to children 2 to 9 who have pre-registered at the Parks and Recreation Office; a $2 charge is required. For more information, call the Chamber of Commerce at 395-2233 or the Parks and Recreation Dept. at 395-2160.

Parade Info

Girl Scout and Brownie Troops from the area will be participating in this year's Easter Parade. Not only will they be showing off their hard-earned badges, they will also be collecting food for the Antioch Food Pantry. The scouts will be pulling wagons as they make their way down the parade route and they are asking that you place your non-perishable donation in the wagons. Now remember folks, although your heart may be in the right place, these are young ladies without great muscle tone so let's not be throwing any institutional-size cans of park and beans or 10-pound bags of rice on their carts. I'm sure the girls would greatly appreciate your consideration.

Thank you from campers

It has been a busy month for the little ones at Camp Crayon. Their "Toyraiser" was a big success. They were the proud recipients of several new toys compliments of Discovery Toys. A special thanks to Julie Konvalinka for arranging the whole event. An even bigger thank you to all the moms, dads, aunts, uncles, grandmas, grandpas and friends that purchased toys during the "Toyraiser" and supported the little people.

The second "Thank You" goes out to three very special "teeth people," as one unnamed source referred to their distinguished guests. Judy Paramski, a dental hygienist from Delany Dental, Julie Larsen, a dental hygienist from Dr. Sven's, and Dr. Dan Boarini from Heritage Dental came to school and explained to the children the proper way to care for their choppers.

While some moms walked away with the new-found knowledge about preserving a knocked-out tooth in a glass of milk until you could get to a dentist, the young ones walked out of camp laden with brochures, stickers, toothbrushes and activity books galore. The staff and students would like to thank all those "teeth people" who took time out of their busy schedules to share with the kids the importance of dental hygiene.

Well folks, I have personally benefited from this new line dance craze that has consumed some Antiochians. I don't actually take the lessons or attend any of the field trips, but the Line Dance Bloopers are starting to trickle my way.

Case in point: Recently, one night at a class, a new dance was being taught called The Funky Slide. The dance begins with a grapevine step to the right and then one to the left, then four steps back, and finishes off with a big scissors jump up to the front and on and on. Well here is the Line Dancin' Lizard and her very tolerant daughter, Donna Bergl, standing side by side as the dance begins. (Donna, I am truly sorry for this but your mom is my biggest fan, not to mention in the position to mold my 4-year-old's mind, so I have to accommodate her.)

So here mom and daughter begin their step to the right, step to the left, and now comes the time for four steps back. The entire line begins moving back except daughter Donna, who gets a bit ahead of herself. Instead of stepping back with the rest of the line, she decides to go solo and suddenly performs the most perfectly executed scissors leap forward into outer space. Naturally, Mommy Dearest erupts in a classic case of the giggles. Okay, so maybe Donna did somewhat resemble Superman leaping a tall building in a single bound, but did the rest of the class practically wet themselves over her totally undeniable overeager mishap? Had it not been for that goofy old mother of hers, the whole incident would have probably just passed quickly and lessons would have resumed.

Unfortunately, with mom cowering in the corner holding herself, it really made the situation a bit hard to ignore, I'm sure.

Donna, one truly has to wonder why you put yourself in a position where you are seen in public with your mama. She's pretty clever, that old one. She can deny ever breathing a word to me about your embarrassment—she let the United States Postal System do her dirty work for her. It's bad enough that she has to drag you through the mud, literally, with the "Caught In The Rain Walking The Dogs" story, and who could forget the satisfaction she received when your extravagant Christmas display failed to light after hours and hours of work? Now Mommy Dearest finds yet another way to publicly humiliate you. Her senility has obviously rendered her witless to the fact that Mother's Day is quickly approaching. We all hope a lot of thought and creativity goes into her gift this year.

Now we know this matriarch is your mother and we all must make amends for family members, but it would have been perfectly justifiable had you stuffed the woman into the trunk of your car for the ride home. We can only hope, too, that during the jaunt home you managed to drive down every rough, gravel road, and hit every speed bump and pot hole between dance lessons and Home Sweet Home. Just wait, Donna, mama's day will come.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle"...don't forget to call 395-6364.

Local students win DAR contest

Ten students from four Lake County schools have won the junior American Citizens contest. The annual contest was sponsored by the Ansel Brainerd Cook Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. This year's theme was "The Heritage of My Community." Categories included Artwork—such as poster, banner, or stamp design; Creative Writing—such as essay, short story or poem; and Special Projects—such as photographic essay.

Each grade and each category was judged separately. The winning schools are Santa Maria Del Popolo School in Mundelein, St. Patrick School in Wadsworth, St. Peter's School in Antioch, and Woodland West Primary School in Gages Lake.

The winners from Santa Maria Del Popolo School in Mundelein are: Sean Dolan, fourth grade, poem; Maggie Dolan, sixth grade, poem and photographic essay.

The winners from St. Patrick School in Wadsworth are:

Christine George, first grade, poster; Christin Accomando, third grade, poem; Katherine George, third grade, banner and essay; Lauren Obrochta, third grade, poster.

The winners from St. Peter's School in Antioch are: Alyssa Ament, second grade, poster; Kaitlyn Ament, fourth grade, essay.

The winners from Woodland West Primary School in Gages Lake are: Joseph DeVries, second grade, stamp design; Renee Mueller, second grade, short story.

Local winners, their families and their teachers attended the Good Citizens Tea in Libertyville on Feb. 11. These 10 winners were honored and presented certificates at that time, and photographs of their artwork were on display.

The first place JAC entries have now been entered into the state of Illinois competition. Those winning entries will then advance to divisional competition consisting of six other states.

Rich Johnson, a tool designer for Skach Manufacturing, fine tunes a machine to produce parts utilized by manufacturers.— photo by Kevin Hanrahan

Small company caters to Big Three

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

They may be less than an inch long and less than a quarter inch in diameter, but the electrical contacts produced by Skach Manufacturing Company are used in almost all the power switches for windows and seats found in most modern cars.

Tucked away in Antioch's industrial district along Anita Avenue, Skach Manufacturing Company manufactures a variety of small cold-formed parts such as rivets, fasteners, terminals and electrical contacts.

With more than 30 machines providing a constant hum and spitting out about 300 rivets a minute, Skach Manufacturing still proudly produces cold-formed parts, as they are called in the tool and dye industry, in a manner that is considered a lost art or science.

But for Bob Shineflug, vice president of Skach Manufacturing, the tool and dye industry has flowed strongly in the Shineflug blood for the past three generations. His brother, Jim, purchased Skach in 1979. Before that, their father worked for Chicago Rivet Company for more than 40 years. In fact, their grandfather was one of the founders of the Chicago Rivet Company.

"As a family, we've been in the rivet business all our lives," said Shineflug (husband to Mayor Marilyn Shineflug) who gave up a teaching career to help his brother establish Skach Manufacturing. Joseph Skach founded the company in Melrose Park and moved it to Antioch in 1962.

Since 1979, the Shineflugs have added modern, high-speed equipment to enhance production capacity and versatility.

"We've more than doubled our sales since acquiring the company," said Shineflug. "We've had steady, consistent growth always with the ambition of keeping the company relatively small."

They employ 26 people with various responsibilities and skills. Some operate the machines that produce the small rivets or other metal parts, while others re-engineer and re-design the heavy-duty machines to produce a new part.

"Companies come to Skach looking for a specific material particular to their needs. We're considered a job shop," Shineflug pointed out. Each machine has to be re-set for each new job.

Skach's customer list includes familiar Lake County companies like Cherry Electric and Abbott Labs as well as other big-league companies like General Electric, AT&T, Fisher Price and Johnson Controls.

"We don't sell directly to the Big 3," said Shineflug, referring to the three auto giants of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. "But switch manufacturers do, and they come to us to make their switch parts."

Although many similar tool and dye companies have moved their operations across the border to Mexico where the labor is much cheaper, Shineflug said he hopes to continue to grow and prosper in Antioch and remain a positive contributor to the community where they have been a member of the Chamber of Commerce and Industry for the past 10 years.

In fact, he has flirted with expansion.

"We're literally running out of space," Shineflug said. "We'd prefer to stay in Antioch, but there's no industrial space left in Antioch."

He said plans for expansion have been postponed as he and his brother explore other sites in the area.

In the meantime, the next time you buzz down your power window in your car for a breath of fresh air, chances are that switch was made possible by parts made by Skach Manufacturing.

Scouts to collect food during Easter Parade

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Easter Parade spectators are encouraged to bring canned goods or other non-perishable food to the parade this year as the Scouts are coordinating a food drive during the parade.

The annual Easter Parade will kickoff at 10:30 a.m., April 6, at Antioch Community High School and proceed down Main Street to the Scout House before concluding at Williams Park.

"The Scouts are organizing a food drive, so they will collect food up and down the parade," noted Cheryl McCameron, director of the parks and recreation department.

Immediately following the parade will be the "Eggcellent Easter Adventure" at Williams Park.

"We fill our own eggs," said McCameron, who added that children can expect to find chocolates, candy, stickers and other small prizes in each plastic egg find. Grand prizes include Easter egg baskets.

The Easter egg hunt will be open to children age 1 to 11. Cost is $2. McCameron said pre-registration is encouraged. Deadline to register is April 5.

"Two kids per age group will win a grand prize," McCameron said. Age groups include 1-2, 3-5, 6-8, and 9-11.

She said the parks department is still accepting applications from individuals or groups wishing to participate in the parade.

For those children who can't wait until the parade to see the Easter Bunny, the Antioch Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring its Easter Bunny visit at Brans Nut Company this weekend and next weekend.

Children can visit the Easter Bunny March 29 and April 5 from 3 to 7 p.m. and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on March 30-31. On Saturday, April 6, hours will be from 1 to 4 p.m.

Easter coloring books and crayons will be given to children. Photos will be available for a small fee.

For information about the parade or egg hunt, call 395-2160.

LETTER TO THE Editor

Less density

Editor:

We are writing this letter asking the citizens of the village and township of Antioch to attend the next zoning board meeting on Thursday, April 11, concerning the development of the Cable property at Tiffany and North Avenue. The developers are presently asking the zoning board to approve 440 homes on roughly 160 acres, and the price of the homes starting at $120,000.

We feel it is time for the people of Antioch to get involved and let our village officials and members of the zoning board know that we are concerned with the type of developments they are allowing into the area. We are asking for less density and a higher quality of home.

We are concerned with the impact this type of subdivision will have on our already overcrowded area services such as schools, roads, shopping, sports activities, police, fire rescue services and public works.

We, the citizens of the Antioch area, have to live with what they construct after the developers complete the project. Please attend the April 11 zoning board meeting at 7:30 p.m.

Spring break tip; file taxes by phone

Students heading home for spring break may find their tax booklet waiting for them in a pile of mail. Not to fret, IRS has made filing taxes easier this year, especially for many students.

Many students can use TeleFile, an electronic filing system that allows qualifying taxpayers to file using a touch tone phone. Students who are single with not dependents, with income under $50,000, and who received the special TeleFile booklet can file by phone. No calculator is needed. After the student enters the requested tax information, the TeleFile system automatically computes the refund or amount due. The whole process only takes about 10 minutes. That leaves another 10,070 minutes to enjoy spring break.

Not only if filing quick for students using TeleFile, but they should also get their refund in 21 days.

Lead is a metal that has been responsible for problems, as lead poisoning has become a major concern to homeowners and children. Even though there has been less use of this metal in recent years it seems to just "pop up." Lead can be found in such things as plumbing pipes, paints, pottery, and canned foods. Some of the recent efforts to reduce lead include the rise in unleaded fuel use, running tap water before use, and sealing lead paint by painting over it and/or scraping it gently (professionals can be hired for this). Only 4 percent of food cans now contain lead only, and manufacturers are required to fire pottery and ceramic ware at temperatures high enough to permanently seal lead to glaze. Although these efforts don't eliminate lead, I think they are very practical in serving a purpose to keep people from experiencing health problems.

As a living being it is important to be aware of the effects of lead poisoning. When ingested or inhaled, lead may cause high blood pressure, kidney disease, and brain damage. This toxic metal has been linked to a variety of neurological problems. These include reduced IQ, impaired hearing and trouble maintaining motor skills and balance. Studies are still being done by scientists, doctors, and health officials to further study the effects of lead on the body. It has been found that lead poisoning eventually attacks the body's immune system. Research studies show that the immune system doesn't usually operate in the brain, therefore the brain proteins don't enter the blood or the rest of the body. The system's molecules then treat these proteins as foreign antibodies. In addition, lead may well be the cause of the immune system's helper T cells and cells that fight off the unbalance caused by viral infections, to get off their normal patterns. Children may have underdeveloped nervous systems and impaired intelligence.

In homes, the major source of lead is viewed as paint dust and chips. Three million children a year have been found to have levels of lead in their blood that may someday harm them. U.S. Centers for Disease Control consider lead to be a health concern when 10 micrograms are in a deciliter of blood. This is the amount that three million children have been found with. At 20 micrograms, one should seek medical attention, and at 45 micrograms, be treated. Lead is not to be taken lightly.

Aren't all these facts and studies reason enough to justify the expenditure of public funds to reduce the amounts of lead in the environment? This toxic metal may have detrimental effects upon the population. When you can be harmed from the water you drink, the food you eat, the dishes you use, and the home you live in, I believe it is in everyone's best interest to put effort and money into finding safety. Future generations of children will also be affected by lead poisoning. Foreign products still contain devastating amounts of lead, certainly more than American products. Testing kits are used to help detect lead in your homes and there are several methods used to remove lead. Lead poisoning is and has been a threat to our society for years. I say it is time for change.—by AMY VANDERKOOY

Lead is a threat to the environment

Many recent efforts have been made to reduce the amount of lead in the environment. Lead compounds are toxic and have resulted in poisoning people from misuse and overexposure.

The greatest hazard arises from the inhalation of vapor and dust. In the case of organolead compounds, absorption through the skin may become significant. Some of the symptoms of lead poisoning include headaches, dizziness, and insomnia. In acute cases there is usually stupor, which progresses to coma and terminates in death. Convulsions are apt to occur in children. Of these children, 25 percent will suffer from permanent brain damage. However, lead poisoning is presently rare because of the industrial application of modern hygienic and engineering controls.

In about 1917, physicians in the United States linked childhood lead poisoning specifically to young children eating lead paint, which they chipped off cribs, toys, and the walls of their rooms. At this time, large amounts of lead were used in paint. Paint used on housing interiors often contained 40 percent or more lead. The recognition that painted surfaces were a danger to children resulted in the enactment of laws. In 1955, the U.S. paint industry agreed to a maximum of 1 percent lead content for interior household paint. Covering lead paint with a nonleaded paint or removing the lead paint also greatly reduces the risk of lead poisoning. Recently, laws have been enacted to reduce the use of tetraethyl lead as an anti-knock compound in gasoline. Tetraethyl lead is the major source of airborne lead. The use of lead has been phased out in unleaded fuels.

Although lead does not dissolve in pure water at ordinary temperatures, it is quite soluble in water containing dissolved oxygen. As a result, lead is unsuited for the piping of water. However, until recent years, lead pipes were used in houses. Older houses must take a sample of the water once a year to check the lead content in the water. New houses have water pipes made of copper. The recent efforts to reduce the amount of lead in the environment have been effective. There is less lead in the environment today. The efforts have also been very practical. None of the changes made in the products affected them very much, and the products are now much safer.—by ANNA MORLEY

DENTAL SPLINTS

By far, the most common cause for teeth to become loose and mobile is advanced periodontal disease which erodes the supporting bone. If the mobility is not too severe and the teeth are otherwise sound, they may be stabilized with a splint which binds them to healthy adjacent teeth and to each other. This distributes the chewing pressures among them. A very simple splint may connect a single mobile tooth to a single firm tooth, or it may connect a group of mobile teeth to teeth on either side. One type of splint is created by cutting continuous channels into the involved teeth. Wire, or nylon filament are laid in these grooves. The dentist then fills the channels with a tooth colored material which holds the wire and binds the teeth together. These splints are inconspicuous and can be inserted easily.

Another more elaborate splinting device is the Maryland bridge. Although it is beautiful and strong it must usually be redone if one of the splinted teeth becomes loose.

Police hope conviction curbs gang violence

Offender faces minimum of 18 years

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

A Gurnee gang member was convicted of attempted murder and aggravated discharge of a firearm in connection with a shooting of a 17-year-old Round Lake Beach youth.

Gregory Koger, 18, 13898 Wildwood Court, Gurnee faces a minimum of 15 years of prison. He will be sentenced on April 29.

It took some quick police work and a little trickery to catch Koger, who was hiding out at a gang stronghold in Zion.

"We went from not knowing who he was to arresting him in one week," said Sgt. Gary Bitler.

The incident occurred at Kristof's Entertainment Center & World Of Fun. The Round Lake Beach youth and Koger reportedly exchanged gang signs inside the center and went outside.

At that point, the victim reportedly picked up a brick after the two exchanged looks and was shot by Koger.

Police were able to find Koger a week after the shooting at a Zion apartment. Round Lake Beach and Zion officers gained access to the apartment disguised as plumbers.

Bitler said the department was able to gain information on the shooter after arresting two of the suspects that night. They were able to use contacts to track him to the apartment.

"We are pleased with the conviction," Bitler said. "We hope this case will send a message to gangs that Round Lake Beach police will arrest people engaging in this type of activity."

"We hope this is a deterrent to others and proves they will have to pay in court. We had a solid case in court and in the end he will have to pay the price," he said.

Another defendant, Wes Whitman, of Antioch, was arrested on mob action and obstruction of justice charges.

the 268 other villages in "solidarity" who have opposed the federal act.

Duggan noted how Congressman John Porter (R-Wilmette) joined a group of suburban Congressmen including Philip Crane (R-Wauconda) recently to voice their opposition to the law and to vow to change parts of the law, specifically the requirement to sound whistles at every railroad crossing.

Porter reportedly said he would work to help change the requirement or prevent the necessary funding needed to enforce the law.

In light of the recent success by suburban communities to postpone enforcement, Duggan charged Antioch leaders with taking a "deafening silent" position on the issue.

While sympathizing with residents who live near train tracks,

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug reiterated the village's position that the village lacks the authority to prohibit trains from blowing their horns.

"The village has no authority over banning train horns," Shineflug said. "If we did join the bandwagon of postponing the Swift Rail Act, that will still not stop the trains from blowing their horns. The trains are already blowing their horns for public and liability reasons."

While the tide of communities opposing the whistle requirement are generally closer to Chicago, Shineflug said she would watch for any positions or resolutions presented by the Lake County Municipal League, which represents communities in Lake County.

No other Lake County communities have officially joined the bandwagon.

Officials chose the site because it is centrally located, and on the water with plenty of storage for equipment. "Everybody agrees, it's the perfect spot," said Dam.

While Dr. Dam says the Agency is quite simply "in a potential pickle," he adds that all hope is not lost. A temporary site owned by the Schnoor family, a marina on Route 12 is a possibility.

The chairman likes to look at the positive side. "We're a lot better off now than we have been [in the past]," said Dam. "I have no bones to pick with anyone, and I'm not mad at anyone."

The program will select 10 players from northern Illinois (Lake County) for tournament play this summer. A limited number of games will be played so as not to interfere with other summer activities for those youngsters involved. Most activities will be on weekends or on weekday mornings.

Tryouts will be held in April. For more information on the program, call Dennis Porter at (847) 740-1837, or Reggie Johnson at (847) 263-6581. Programs and specific tryout information will be mailed to you. Tryouts will be conducted at an area high school. There is no cost to try out for the team.

MHS, 'Cats and Antioch open season with sweeps

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

There is nothing quite like the first day of high school baseball season.

Mother Nature was fairly kind to Lake County on Saturday, with a brisk wind but temperatures in the upper 40s to low 50s.

Mundelein, Libertyville and Antioch all got their seasons off to a bright note by winning twice each.

The day started in Gurnee, where there was no baseball due to muddy conditions at Hersey High School in Arlington Heights.

Instead, the Blue Devils grabbed a few rulers and hammers and began to reconstruct a storage facility and freshmen baseball diamond damaged by vandals this winter.

"The varsity team and fathers worked on the dugout. We tried to save as much as we could and then improve the field and the storage shed with the insurance money," Warren Coach Dar Townsend said.

The Blue Devils have new hitting screens and a machine called the Sandaro, which golf courses use to move dirt and spread sand. The backstop will be improved as well.

High noon was the starting time for a Mundelein doubleheader with Grayslake. The Mustangs took the first contest 6-3 behind the pitching of Kyle McCarthy. McCarthy walked just one Ram and fanned four in a five-hitter.

"It is nice to be able to play — we have a lot worse weather in May," MHS Coach Todd Parola said.

Parola, a second-year mentor, was pleased with McCarthy's effort.

"He only had 73 pitches, and he threw strikes. We told the pitchers 'we don't care if they hit it to the moon — just throw strikes,'

Parola said. "Kyle is a very good athlete — he fields his position well and he kept the ball down."

The MHS squad is a junior-dominated team this spring. Greg Miller, who went three-for-three at the plate and had three RBIs, is off to a good start and plays first base; Andy Kupsack, Casey Duval and Adam Schmidt had two hits each.

The Mustangs were also sound defensively.

Mundelein also took the second game, a 9-8 slugfest.

Meanwhile, the Antioch High squad's bats were also in mid-season form, the Sequoits trouncing Wauconda 11-0 and 9-2.

Anyway, so much for post-basketball season blues. They were definitely gone with some Mundelein High hospitality courtesy of the parking lot grill.

Antioch youth basketball finishes off with a successful season

Antioch hosted Libertyville in its season finale and managed to win one of three games played. The eighth graders won 45-37, but both the sixth and seventh grade teams suffered losses. Nevertheless, it was a most successful year for all three teams.

From the opening tip to the final buzzer, the sixth graders played Libertyville tough but came up on the short end of a 29-24 score. Antioch stayed even with the Cats throughout the game and trailed by three with just 30 seconds to play. They had several chances to tie or win, but could not get the ball to fall. Chris Kocinski led in scoring with eight points. Both Shawn Schuler and Brian Walsh added four and strong defensive games were turned in by Josh Bonner, Andrew Kinney, Joe Finkelberg, Drew Petkus, Justin Mehaffey, and Kevin Pendergast. The sixth graders ended with a 14-4 season mark.

The seventh graders went up against the areas top seventh grade team, Libertyville, and battled them point for point before eventually losing 41-30. Antioch went up early 12-6 after one quarter, but managed only two points in the second as Libertyville countered with 19 second quarter points. They fought back to within 6 early in the fourth, but could not get any closer. Eric White was high scorer with 14 points, while Ari Brown and Brandon White each added six. Scott Hodina grabbed nine rebounds and strong defensive games were turned in by Justin Kent, Mike Perrone, Rob Lodesky, and Eric Langner. The seventh graders finished their season with 12 wins.

The eighth graders finished with a 45-37 victory over

Libertyville. They also won the Huskie Basketball Tournament over the weekend. Against Libertyville, Antioch was led in scoring by Don Lackey with 14, and Jason Schuler with 10. Quinn Gooch had a great defensive effort. Branden Clutts and Brad Groth each had outstanding floor games.

Planning for the 1996-97 season is already under way. Besides fielding three teams — sixth, seventh and eighth grades — a fifth grade team may be added. Anyone interested in next year's program may call Denny Porter at 740-1837.

—LETTER TO THE Editor—

A big thank you

Editor:

Communities came out in force when they heard the news about my Rachael. They helped by displaying posters, selling tickets, offering raffle items, supplying food, and lots and lots of prayers. The warmth and love generated these past few months has helped more than you could know. It's the genuine concern and prayers of so many that will pull my baby through this moment in her life.

There are so many people that made the spaghetti dinner a success, but I am limited on space. I would like to thank the cooks, Tom and Becky Stolfi, for not only the endless number of days and nights of organizing, but also for making the dinner a fun place to be. Also to Kim Emmerson and Sheila Denikas for coming up with the idea and putting everything they had to offer into the planning and organizing.

The Aid Association for Lutherans has graciously offered to match the funds raised by the spaghetti dinner. A big thanks to the Girl Scout troops who responded for much needed help cleaning up and baking. You did a great job, girls.

So many loving and caring people that made this fund raiser not only financially a success, but also a moment in my life that I will never forget. I will cherish this memory forever. Thank you and God bless.

GCHS names its top 10 students

ELIZABETH EAKEN
Staff Reporter

The gym was packed with student's eager to leave for the afternoon, the start of the spring break. They were gathered for the spring recognition assembly at Grayslake High School.

"We're going to take the opportunity today to recognize the students who've worked hard. We also want to recognize the teachers and coaches for their hard work," said Dr. Elizabeth McDonald, principal.

The top 10 students from each class were announced and the sports and fine arts groups were honored. Students came down one by one as their names were called to be recognized by the student body for their hard work.

The percussion ensemble played and they, along with the other band members, were recognized as well as honored. They are in New York City this week performing. The chorus sang the "Lullaby of Broadway" to wish them luck on their trip.

The top 10 students of the 1996 graduating class were named. They are: Carey Everett Radebaugh, Erin Kathleen Murphy, Paige Anne Reardon, Dana A. Dorr, Mary Ellen Kathleen O'Donnell, Meagan Burns, Emily Ann Kirby, Renee M. Czaja, Estera Laura Tent and Bryan Kiple.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters helps single parents

As a single parent it seems as though there is not much time to spend one on one with your children as you would like. Big Brothers/Big Sisters can help. Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Lake County has a valuable resource available. It has big sisters waiting for children.

The waiting big sisters are all adult women, over 18, who have been interviewed, screened and accepted for matches with girls who are ages 5 to 14 and with boys who are 10 and under. In addition to these age requirements, prospective little sisters and brothers must be from single parent homes, live in Lake County, and have little or no contact with their absent parent.

Single parents can be very busy people with many demands from work and children. A big sister can help. She will spend 12 to 15 hours a month with your child. This offers two great benefits. The child's parent gets some needed relief when she knows her daughter or son is in good hands. The child gets the opportunity to form a close friendship with another adult and to engage in activities in the community which might not be readily available at home. There is no fee to the child or parent to participate in this program.

Single parents who have children that meet the requirements to receive a Big Sister may call 360-0770 for further information on getting their children enrolled in this program. Big Brothers/Big Sisters serves all of Lake County.

Lake County Building survives bomb threat

200 court employees evacuate

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Approximately 200 court employees and other members of the public evacuated the County Building after an anonymous caller phoned in a possible bomb threat.

At about 8:45 a.m. Monday morning, an anonymous caller phoned the main switchboard at the County Building and said that a bomb might be delivered and detonated in the courts area.

The first four floors of the court building were immediately evacuated.

The Lake County Sheriff's Office along with Waukegan fire and police departments responded to the scene and conducted an extensive search, but found nothing that could be considered an explosive device.

"We conducted a thorough search and did not find any foreign devices or anything that looked like it did not belong there," said Captain Stan Iwan of the sheriff's department.

Courts in session were recessed for about an hour and a half, while the investigation took approximately an hour. Most of those evacuated from the building waited at the Waukegan Public Library. Courts resumed session later in the morning.

"It was quite an exciting morning," said Anne O'Connell, a Lake County spokesperson.

She noted, however, only the court side of the County Building needed to be evacuated, while work continued in other county offices such as the county clerk, treasurer, finance and other administrative departments.

O'Connell said up to 900 employees work at the County

Building, but only about 200 court employees on the south end of the building evacuated the building during the bomb threat and ensuing search.

She did note that the number of employees at the court end of the building was fewer than usual.

"Things are little bit slower this week because juries are on spring break," O'Connell said. "In a normal week, there's more people on that end of the building."

O'Connell said the other employees on the north end of the building were not evacuated. See BOMB page B2

State education plan gets mixed reviews

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

A proposed constitutional amendment to reform the way schools are funded in the state is getting mixed reviews from Lake County legislators who welcome dialogue on the issue but feel the current proposal may short-change Lake County school districts.

The Governor's Commission on Education Funding has recommended the voters of Illinois be given the opportunity to vote on the issue on the November general ballot. The general assembly would have to approve placing the amendment on the ballot by a 3/5 majority vote.

Under the proposed amendment Illinois residents would trade higher personal income taxes for relief from property taxes. The proposed amendment would guarantee substantial property tax relief and would commit the state to paying at least 50 percent of the cost of assuring appropriate support for each and every school child in Illinois. It would also require schools to be accountable for the quality of education they are providing.

"I believe it is important for the governor to open this issue up to dialogue in the general assembly," said Sen. Bill Peterson (R-26th, Prairie View). "The proposed amendment will give property tax relief but I don't think many districts in our area will be served by the proposed changes."

'The proposed amendment will give property tax relief, but I don't think many districts in our area will be served by the proposed changes.'

— Sen. Bill Peterson
(R-Prairie View)

According to Peterson, under terms of the proposed amendment each district in the state would receive $4,225 per pupil. The majority of districts in Lake County spend considerably more than that amount to educate students today.

"In the Stevenson High School district where the cost of educating a pupil is approximately $9,000, I wonder how they would honor teachers contracts if they were only receiving $4,225 per pupil. How could the public voice support to provide more funding for the district?"

Even Lake County's poorer school districts spend more than $4,225 per pupil. However, around the state approximately 60 percent of the state's school districts fall below the $4,225 level of general funding. Examples of costs around the county are:

- Lake Villa Dist. 41- $3,927 per pupil
- Antioch Elementary Dist. 34- $4,145 per pupil
- Gavin School Dist. 37- $4,246 per pupil
- Mundelein Elementary Dist. 75- $4,454 per pupil
- Round Lake Unit Dist. 116- $4,669 per pupil
- Fox Lake Elementary Dist.

114- $5,319 per pupil

• Wauconda Unit Dist. 118- $5,432 per pupil

• Waukegan Unit Dist. 60- $5,475 per pupil

• Lake Zurich Unit Dist. 95- $5,598 per pupil

• North Chicago Unit Dist. 187- $5,625 per pupil

• Diamond Lake Dist. 76- $5,780 per pupil

• Antioch High School Dist. 117- $5,851 per pupil

• Gurnee School Dist. 56- $5,957 per pupil

• Hawthorn Dist. 73- $6,033 per pupil

• Warren Township High School- $7,460 per pupil

• Grant High School- $7,791 per pupil

• Mundelein High School Dist. 120- $8,610 per pupil

• Libertyville High School Dist. 128- $8,737 per pupil.

Figures were reported in the 1995 school report cards.

"There is a lot of tax relief in the proposed bill but I have many questions," said Peterson. "Currently, 75 percent of businesses in Illinois don't pay property taxes and they would be getting greater relief. The burden of funding is always on the taxpayer. See PLAN page B3

County internet page 'a hit' with voters

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

With a new elections' administrator, new ballot procedures and nearly one-fourth of all elections judges on the job participating in their first election, the county clerk's office "is pleased" with how the election process went on primary day.

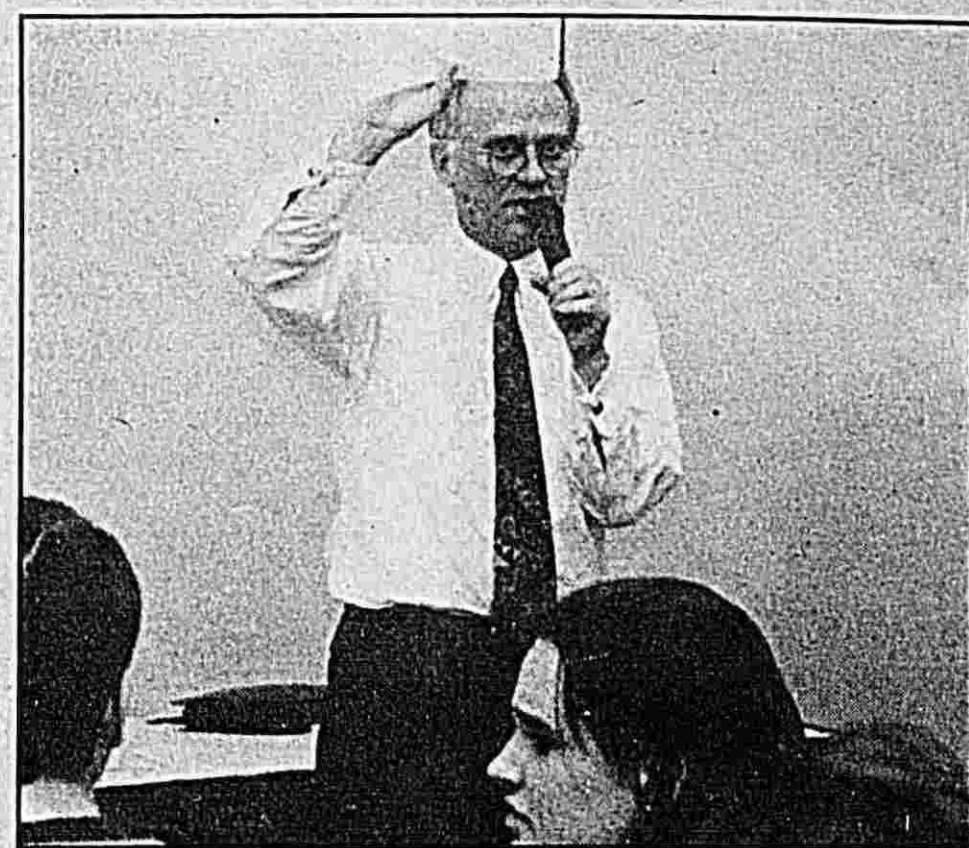

Susan Ewalt, elections administrator, said voter turnout for the March 19 primary election was approximately 31 percent. The ballots were completely tallied by 2:16 a.m. March 20.

By contrast, the voter turnout for the 1992 primary election was nearly 46 percent and the ballots were tallied by 2:04 a.m. the following morning.

"With the number of different ballot styles and new administrative procedures we implemented, we were quite pleased by how quickly and smoothly everything went," said Ewalt.

In addition to posting results as they were counted on the main frame computers available in the lobby of the county clerk's office; the tallies were also posted on the county's new web page on the internet.

"We had a lot of positive response to offering the results on-line from both the public and the candidates," said Ewalt. The address for the on-line results was only "on-line" for two days prior to the election. See INTERNET page B2

A call to action

Bert Stitt, a consultant hired to lead Waukegan Sunrise, discusses motivation techniques with attendees at a strategic planning conference on revitalizing downtown Waukegan. The conference attracted more than 100 volunteers.

Internet

and the web page recorded 731 hits election night. Ewalt says the county will offer the Internet postings again during the November general election.

Due to the national voters act, commonly referred to as "motor voter," ballots styles changed with voters having the option to be registered to vote in only federal elections. This necessitated printing ballots for all parties for just federal offices.

"There were more than 500 different ballot styles for this primary election," Ewalt said. "That is considerably more than in past elections."

More than 1,400 new judges attended training to become election judges. The county clerk's office is still recruiting interested individuals to serve as election judges for the November general election where voter turnout is generally the highest.

Voters' registration has reopened as well. For information on where to register to vote, call 360-6628.

Bomb

because the caller said there "might" be a bomb, not that there "would be" a bomb.

Iwan went on to say it is difficult to sneak a bomb into the courts because everybody entering the building must pass through an X-Ray machine.

"Any type of suspicious device can be seen on this X-ray machine," Iwan said.

He also said security personnel look for suspicious devices that have batteries, wires or any type of power source.

"I'm not saying it is impossible to get a bomb in there, but it is very difficult with the security measures in place," Iwan said.

An investigation is continuing. The switchboard lines do not contain police tracking devices.

"Those lines are not taped, so we don't have any caller ID or know where the call came from," Iwan noted. Iwan said the caller was male who said he was calling on behalf of a woman.

Antioch does not jump aboard

ANTIOCH—Antioch Mayor Marilyn Shineflug is not jumping aboard the bandwagon of suburban communities urging the federal government to repeal its mandatory whistle blowing law. According to the Swift Rail Act, trains beginning in November would be required to sound their whistles at all railroad crossings, but a ban of west suburban communities has encouraged the federal government to postpone that requirement until 1997.

A longtime opponent to whistle blowing and apartment property owner in Antioch urged Shineflug and the Village of Antioch to join the other communities to eliminate the mandatory whistle blowing. For safety and liability reasons, Shineflug reiterated the village's neutral position but she said would monitor possible positions and resolutions by the Lake County Municipal League. — Kevin Hanrahan

Car chase causes injuries

FOX LAKE—Police in Fox Lake were alerted to a car in hot pursuit prior to it hitting a vehicle in front of the Fox Lake McDonald's Monday night. Charges leveled at driver, Annmarie Schauer, 21, of Lake Zurich were given by Wauconda police include driving under the influence. Fox Lake police also cited her with aggravated fleeing or attempting to elude. She was also clocked at 107 mph in a speed zone of 55 mph.

She and her passenger Phillip J. Golle, 33, were transported to the Northern Illinois Medical Center in McHenry. Another carload of people she hit in Fox Lake were also taken to the medical center. In the course of the accident, a Wauconda patrolman was injured seriously and taken to the medical center. As of Tuesday, Officer Michael Botterman, 30, was reported in intensive care at the hospital. According to reports, Schauer and her counterpart had allegedly been at Giordano's restaurant where they left without paying their bill. — Staff report

Seat belts catching on

GRAYSLAKE—The Grayslake Police Department was honored by the Illinois Department of Transportation and National Highway Traffic Safety Council for 80 percent compliance for seat belt use in the community. Grayslake was one of three municipalities to receive the award this year.

Prior to this year, since 1990, only four communities in the state received the honor for 80 percent or higher seat belt use. — Elizabeth Eaken

Township extends no-smoking

GURNEE—Employees of the Warren Township Assessor's office will soon no longer be able to smoke. Trustees approved amending a resolution adopted in 1994 which allowed the assessor Joe Dada's office employees the right to smoke. The matter was raised when the township received a $150 bill for cleaning the affects of smoking. — Steve Peterson

One-vehicle accident fatal

GURNEE—A Hawthorn Woods resident died March 25 when his vehicle veered off a Gurnee road. Howard S. Matczyanski, age 51, was pronounced dead at St. Therese Medical Center's emergency room about 45 minutes after the 11:15 a.m. accident.

According to Lake County Coroner's office, cause of death was listed as multiple traumatic injuries. The accident took place off Route 21 south of Washington Street. — Steve Peterson

Students question resignation

LAKE ZURICH—One quarter of the student population at Lake Zurich High School is standing behind an administrator who mysteriously submitted his letter of resignation this month. Neither the school board nor Dennis Kreeger, assistant principal and athletic director, have offered any reasons to his resignation after two years.

Student spokesman Tim Sikes presented a petition signed by 320 students to the Lake Zurich Unit District 95 school board, as well as a statement, asking for answers. "It is our belief that some self-serving special interest minority is responsible for this development," Sikes said. — Spencer Schein

High school principal resigns

LIBERTYVILLE—Dr. Will Booker, principal of Libertyville Community High School, has turned in his resignation. Booker cited his reasons for leaving as personal and family related, according to Superintendent Dr. Donald Gossett.

Booker has been with the district for eight years. The first four as assistant principal and the last four as principal of the Butler Lake Building.

The district is currently accepting applications and has set a target date of July 1, for hiring a replacement, according to Gossett. — Elizabeth Eaken

'Serial' bank robber nabbed

VERNON HILLS—Police in Orlando, Fla., captured

a bank robber suspect red-handed as he was fleeing a robbery at the Central Bank of Florida. The same suspect is being charged with the armed bank robbery at First of America Bank in Vernon Hills Dec. 11. Brian McGrath, 24, of Mundelein, was being held in federal custody, according to an FBI spokesperson.

McGrath

McGrath is also believed to be responsible for several other bank robberies in the Chicago suburbs including another First of America Bank branch in Vernon Hills, and banks in Lake Zurich and Deerfield. McGrath was captured on surveillance cameras during the Dec. 11 heist in Vernon Hills.

The FBI has been searching for him since early January when left the state. The FBI has referred to McGrath as a serial bank robber. The FBI is still investigating the other bank robbery cases. — Kevin Hanrahan

er. I just think we need to consider carefully what the relief would be to the taxpayers and whether or not this system would be better."

Dr. Donald Gossett, superintendent of Libertyville High School, was one of the members of the governors commission on education funding.

"The state funding will affect some districts in more ways than others. It's an opportunity for people to make a decision. We found large discrepancies in what we spend on education throughout the state," Gossett said, adding so far legislators have not been able to solve the problem of equitable funding for schools.

Gossett also said state legislators need to understand the proposal calls for the amendment, if passed, to be implemented over a three-year period.

According to Gossett over the three year period with the increase in state aid, the taxes would be rolled back to $1 per every $100 of equalized assess valuation on a home. Locally, people could increase the rate at referendum if the funds were needed or wanted by the district.

Peterson questions whether voters would support referendums while also paying additional income tax to fund schools.

"Would that support be there?" Peterson asked. "If Round Lake had to roll back what they receive in property taxes under the amendment would they have to go back to the voters to pass a referendum as they did last week to accomplish the same thing? That is what I question."

State Rep. Verna Clayton (R-Buffalo Grove) says she will also keep an open mind to the proposal but has many questions on how it will affect districts in her area.

"I need to evaluate how this will impact the schools in my district," Clayton said. "I feel there are a lot of questions that needed to be asked as it goes through the house and senate. This would be a big shift in funding."

Both the senate and house will hold hearings on the proposed constitutional amendment over the next several weeks. A vote by the general assembly to place the measure on the ballot will be taken in May. In order for the amendment to be placed on the ballot it must receive a 3/5 vote by the general assembly. To be passed into law by the residents of Illinois, 60 percent of voters must agree to the change. If passed it would require a May 30, 1997 implementation.

Forest Preserve bond refund results in taxpayer savings

Lake County taxpayers could save more than $1,200,000 in interest payments through advance refunding of general obligation bonds, following action taken by the Lake County Forest Preserve Board of Commissioners at their March 15 meeting. The net present value of the savings to date is $700,000.

Due to 20-year record low interest rates, the District approved a resolution to issue general obligation refunding bonds to refinance the remaining $10 million portion of the original $84 million Series 1989 general obligation bonds. The new Series 1996 bonds will be refunded at an average interest rate of 4.8 percent, lower than the current six percent rate for the bonds. This could save Lake County taxpayers more than $1,200,000 over the next 13 years. Refinancing of the remaining bonds would result in a savings of .75 cents on a $100,000 home.

Action taken by the Forest Preserve Board of Commissioners at their March meeting gives authority to Forest Preserve President Jim LaBelle, Treasurer Carol Calabrese, and Finance and Administration Committee Chair Robert Grever to move quickly to lock-in the lower interest rates and maximize the savings.

Salvi win foretells GOP reform need

Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra and his boss can whine all they want about how and why they were drubbed by State Rep. Al Salvi. We're being overly kind to Bail-out Bob calling his loss a drubbing. Considering the odds, the Salvi victory for the U.S. Senate nomination was a blockbuster.

Politicians and media pundits missed the point in assessing blame for the Kustra defeat, falling back on the standard copouts—poor weather, lack of media, voter apathy, being outspent, Salvi's appeal to single issue zealots, abortion, etc., etc., etc. Phooey guys. And shame on the big city press. Kustra lost because he was forced to sell his party's shop-worn product. Is anyone at GOP headquarters listening?

The game lieutenant governor, a wobbly personal image notwithstanding, ran pretty well, but he was burdened by a Republican leadership that caters to special interests, advancing individual power bases and building a third airport, expanding the corrupt tollway system and having taxpayers foot the bill for the Chicago Bears' McDome rather than lowering governmental costs, cutting taxes and improving Illinois educational standards and funding.

It is incorrect to characterize Al Salvi's victory as a rebellion. In our mind the Lake County resident's success in part involved an awakening on the part of independent Republicans, to what is happening to their party and their state.

Salvi's conservative message was telling. His character bespeaks of honesty, decency and family values. Just as important, Al Salvi's nomination was a result of thinking Republicans deciding that "business as usual" no longer is tolerable.

Partnerships spell education progress

One of the encouraging trends in local education is the effort to get business involved with education. The buzz word is "partnerships." An increasing number of local business owners and leaders of Lake County industry are discovering that it's worthwhile to get involved in what's happening in classrooms in the community.

Edward Gonwa, regional superintendent of Lake County schools, rightly described a launch point. "There has to be a common language between business and education so everyone can be on the same page."

Gonwa was referring to obtaining help from the business community in setting skill standards, a process where students—future employees—and their teachers know what tools will be needed, what jobs entail and what procedures are needed to attain specific goals.

The idea isn't new, but it's a concept that has been difficult to put across. One hundred eighty educators and business leaders recently talked about setting standards at a seminar sponsored by Kemper Insurance and the Lake County Economic Development Commission.

Educators and the public have bought into the notion that graduates of our schools so are lacking in basic skills, like writing and math, that they have difficulty acquiring jobs.

There's some truth to this perception, but attaining the skills needed to be a competent and productive employee in today's economy is a lot more complicated than becoming a better writer and bucking up in mathematics.

We firmly believe the business community has an obligation besides furthering its own self interest to become more involved in the education of our youth.

Some call the cooperative effort "forming partnerships." Gonwa calls it getting on "the same page." State and federal officials are happy to get involved in setting skill standards, but that usually involves expanding bureaucracies that already overburden education and run up the cost of education for taxpayers.

When business and educators cooperate at the local level, there is no need for the faceless middlemen in Washington and Springfield. Keep standard setting at home and we're all the better for it.

Stench hovering over county GOP organization

LARRY LEAFBLAD

County Board member

As a voter, they think you won't notice their heavy hand.

I'm talking about the leaders of the local Republicans. They have offices in Libertyville.

In our area, their hand-picked Republican candidates lost in the primary. All of them: Depke, Fojtik, Raftis, McCloskey, and Wolf. All of them have been financed by Big Jack (Martin), who continues to try to buy politicians—because he himself is lacking the courage to step up and play.

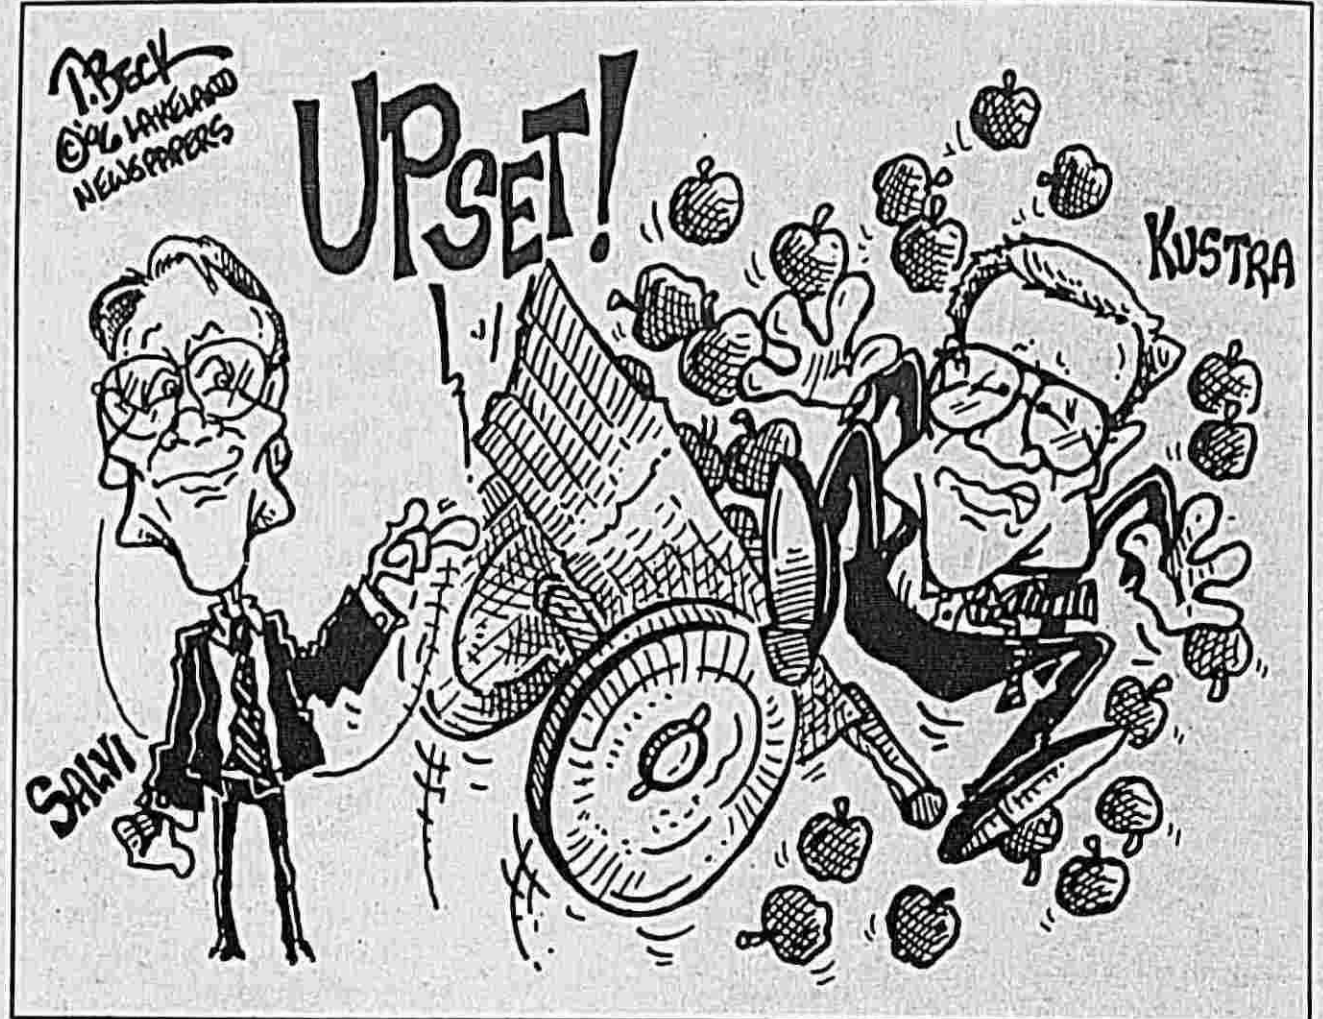

The independents who won: Al Westerman, Bonnie Thomson Carter, Sandy Cole, Larry Leafblad, and Suzi

Schmidt must be wondering if that same leadership will now put the money and the power behind them in the general election in November.

One thing for sure. There's total disgust.

One thing you may not care about is those leaders and their imperial nature. They believe they know more than you. They think it's their job to "anoint and appoint" office holders.

We hear about the "powerful Republican organization" in Lake County: Well, people are as turned off with that stench as they are with some of the things they are seeing in Washington. A recent Chicago Tribune article talked about the See COMMENTARY page B5

VIEWPOINT

Whatsiz line targeted for August 19 launch

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

Shucks! I was all set to weigh in with some neat suggestions for the name for the new north line rail commuter service upon learning that Metra directors and their minions will pick the name for service running on Wisconsin Central tracks.

No contest. No public input. We'll get the name selected by Metra bosses at their May meeting.

"A contest is not being used because then you have one happy person and hundreds of disappointed people. No one wants to disappoint people," stated Chris Knapton, Metra's director of media relations. A PC decision. Politically correct. Metra has targeted Monday, August 19, to start service, but that's subject to change.

For what it was worth, my entry was going to be Norline.

CORRECTION—Officials of W.W. Grainger want it known that more than 300 acres turned over to the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. as part of plans for its new headquarters in Mettawa was the result of long range conservation, not political pressure as implied in an editorial in this newspaper several weeks ago.

James M. Baisley, senior vice president, general counsel and secretary had this to say:

"Grainger's initial proposal to the Village of Mettawa in 1988, which was made before there was any opposition, provided for a 155 acre office campus, 27 large estates, and over 300 acres of permanent open space. Grainger's 1993 proposal to Lake County provided for a 155 acre office campus, 40 home sites, and the same over 300 acres of permanent open space. The difference is that Grainger's 1993 Lake County plan was based on a Conservation Development Land Design that clustered the home sites, thereby providing the opportunity to consolidate the open space into the gift of 257 acres to the Lake County Forest Preserve. From the start to finish there was no change in the amount of permanent open space that Grainger was willing to provide..."

COACH BOOKED—New Illini basketball coach Lon Kruger will make his first appearance in Lake County Monday, July 15. That's the date for the first ever

University of Illinois Athletic Scholarship Fund golf outing in the county. The U of I has booked the prestigious and exclusive Merit Club on Rte. 21 north of Libertyville for the outing that will be limited to 100 players.

Kruger is an avid golfer and will be among the players. Early returns among county alumni are in and the former Florida mentor is getting a thumbs up. For $500, you can meet Lon, join the fun and make a substantial contribution toward student athlete scholarships at the U of I.

NEW MUSEUM—April 1 the new Great Lakes Naval Museum officially takes occupancy of Build 158 at the U.S. Naval Training Center as its permanent home. A grand opening is set for October.

By then Leland "Trig" Watson of Mundelein, the curator, will have initial displays ready for public view. The opening will coincide with the 85th anniversary of the dedication of Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

Watson and his wife, Dottie, are making the gathering of artifacts and memorabilia a community project. Any county residents with ship models, old photos, vintage uniforms, medals and ribbons, etc., are invited to contact the Watsons at 847-566-7743.

ELECTION LOSERS—Defeated candidates weren't the only losers in the March 19 primary. Libertyville businessman Jack Martin, a key fund raiser for Republican candidates, and House Majority Leader Bob Churchill (R-Lake Village) opened up coffers in a last ditch effort to avert a County Board power upheaval. Most of the recipients were party-endorsed candidates who lost. Sharp-eyed political observers are waiting for disclosure reports due in July to determine who got what and how much.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY—A Disney video does wonders getting a little girl with boundless energy to sit still for awhile, her grandparents discovered over the weekend. Thank goodness for "Dumbo," which Erika had not seen before. She loved it. And her grandparents loved the 64 minutes of running time to catch their breath during her overnight stay.

PARTY LINES

Durkin, Davis kick off 1997 municipal elections

Partylines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

Two mayors share the spotlight for kicking off the 1997 municipal elections. Balloting is a year away.

Democratic Mayor Bill Durkin made the biggest splash, announcing for a second term at a St. Patrick's Day party. But Durkin was superseded by Mayor Ralph Davis of Round Lake Beach, who said he would run for a second term last fall when he switched from being a Democrat to the Republican party.

The Waukegan chief executive was elected three years ago after serving as city clerk for 12 years. Durkin said his running mates will be City Clerk Sam Filippo and Treasurer Dan Drew. Filippo's announcement raised a few eyebrows. Rumors have been circulating that he might retire.

The extra-early Durkin announcement is seen in some quarters as a means of boosting his daughter's candidacy in the November race for recorder of deeds. Mary Ellen Durkin Vanderventer will be her party's marquee entry in Republican-dominated Lake County.

Durkin's decision also provided Republican supporters on the Waukegan council and in the county seat business community that there will be a "steady as she goes" future. Durkin generally is considered to be doing a yeoman job in a tough task.

More voting—Republican precinct committee persons will convene Monday, April 1, at Midlane Country Club, Wadsworth, for the Central Committee convention to pick new officers. County GOP Chairman John Schullen is expected to be in good shape for re-election. But you never know.

Schullen won renomination for his Lake County Board seat from Libertyville and he was on the right side of the Salvi-Kustra battle.

County Democratic Chairman Terry Link is considered a shoo-in for two more years.

Central committee officers are elected by both parties after every general primary.

Speaker sought—At last check, committee members still were searching for a name speaker to headline the 34th annual Lake County Republican Federation dinner Friday, May 10, at Marriott's Lincolnshire. Last two big GOP names were House Speaker Newt Gingrich (before he became Speaker) and Massachusetts Gov. William Weld.

Nice talk—County Board Rep. Larry Leafblad (R-Highland Lake) celebrated his renomination in an unusual way—saying nice things about his stiffest challenger, Atty. Pat McCloskey.

"Pat is a nice guy and ran a hard campaign, but he had poor advice," related Leafblad, who said his opponent's downfall was relying on the political masterminding of Molly Larson and Round Lake Park Mayor Charlene Beyer, Avon Township Republican chairman.

Besides saying nice things about his one-time foe, Leafblad was quick to point out Beyer was defeated for re-election as a precinct captain, which will take her out of the mainstream of partisan politics. The fact that Larson and Beyer supported Leafblad four years ago might have something to do with his current stance.

Beyer

Criss crossing—Democratic cross-overs reportedly played a part in the plans of State Rep. Tom Lachner (R-Lake Bluff) to remake the Shields Township Republican complexion in his own image. Lachner captured the GOP nomination for state senator, but precinct committee candidates his team backed were defeated with the help of some known Democrats.

Illinois election law permits quick party changes. Two years ago Republican cross-overs helped Carol Moseley-Braun win the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate in an upset. You know what happened after that.

First volley—Democratic Senatorial candidate Dick Durbin wasted no time lobbing a volley to start the campaign for November's general election. The morning after the primary, Durbin shotgunned a press release with the headline: "Disaster extremist wins GOP nod in Illinois." Republican candidate Al Salvi met the volley with a soundbite on the evening news declaring he is a mainstream candidate. And the race is on.

Meanwhile—The National Republican Senatorial Committee Press Office headlined its national press release, "Salvi rides anti-tax message to victory: Washington insider Durbin vulnerable on tax hike record." The Salvi upset made national news headlines.

Tax fighter—Avon Twp. Supervisor Russ Christian is letting politicians and the public know the township board strongly endorses the efforts of the Illinois General Assembly in drafting an unfunded mandates constitutional amendment. "Calling for an unfunded mandates constitutional amendment is a serious effort to restore both fiscal and elected integrity at the state and local level," Christian said. "Unfunded state mandates have eroded local officials' ability to control taxes. We must seek a solution to fiscal responsibility by both state and local officials. The proposed amendment is a major step in that direction."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editorial inaccurate

Editor:

As a builder and president of the Home Builders Assn. of Greater Chicago, I am ever mindful of the public perception of the building industry. It seems to have become popular to take aim at an industry that built the homes we live in, and attempts to make that dream possible for our children and future generations.

Every so often, comments made by the press go beyond what I consider typical. Such is the case in the editorial which appeared in your March 15, 1996 editorial. In the editorial it is written that it is "the stated policy of a county builders organization that taxpayers should foot the costs associated with growth and development." The Home Builders Assn. of Greater Chicago has represented builders and developers in Lake County since 1939. I have seen no document that states the position you quote in the editorial. I would be interested in seeing such document.

Since your editorial goes on to say that "Enlightened taxpayers shudder at the gall and greed displayed by developers," I consider your text to be, at best, inflammatory and in my opinion, inaccurate.

Memories of campaign

Editor:

I wish to thank the many friends and neighbors who so generously worked in behalf of my candidacy for the Republican nomination to the Lake County Board from Dist. 17. Although unlike me he was on the winning side, the Duke of Wellington's words are appropriate. He said, after the battle of Waterloo, "It was a damned near run thing."

Since the primary, a score of supporters have called to commiserate with me on my loss. Besides giving me a chance to thank them personally, their calls were deeply appreciated because they reinforced my sense that many people really care about the issues and principles that I stood for in my campaign.

On the day after the primary, I received a handwritten note from a voter in the Wauconda portion of Dist. 17. He lives in a neighborhood of very small, modest homes. On the outside of the envelope was scrawled, "I vote Republican!" Just as he wrote it, here is what he said: "Dear Mr. Roberts. I saw your signs along the highway nestled among all the others. It didn't mean much for me, after all I don't vote for signs. However, when I got home after seeing you and the Mrs. on your pluggers, it was a different story. I said, 'These are my kind of people.' My wife, who is in a nursing home, whose birthday is today, March 19, 1906, would want me to cast my ballot for you. I will be 90 years old on March 20, 1909, and know real folks when I see them. I hope you make it. Good luck. God bless you both."

Since he has no phone listing, I couldn't call him. Let's hope that he liked the birthday card Betty and I sent him. Does anybody know what he meant by "on your pluggers?"

Editor's note: "Pluggers" once was used commonly to refer to publicly distributed advertising and campaign literature. It is now considered an archaic term.

Winners must deliver

Editor:

Brrring! The bell that went off on Tuesday, March 19, was a clear wake-up call, a wake-up call for everyone who thought that elections were decided before the votes were cast and that certain political offices had the appearance of personal property.

As an elected village official of Gurnee, I have long been an advocate and believer in the process of good government. The results of the March 19 election bring back into sharp focus that the presence of good government begins with we the people casting our ballots.

Republicans who are probably going to vote Democrat in the fall.

It's the same everywhere.

And, it's the same in Lake County.

Well, they're batting .0000 in this region.

And, so is Jack Martin and his crew.

I wonder if Big Jack (who launches "Big Jack Attacks" on independent politicians) has heard about the "Pendulum theory." I for one hope he is paying attention, because as he played a role in the "swinging of the pendulum" to Gr-r-rowth on the county board, he will be a target as it swings back.

Remember. The Republicans and all

As both an advocate and believer in this process, I can assure winners that the process not only begins here, but continues on through the general election, and most importantly continues after that, as servants of the people.

Those who won with their appealing rhetoric now stand in the public spotlight and must be prepared to deliver in November.

Those of us who hold the public trust recognize that unlike politics, public service is a race without a finish line. Now that the words have been spoken, the deeds must follow.

Mark J. Ratfelders
Trustee, Village of Gurnee

other power people have seen the lesson you showed them March 19. You know how "term limits work." You voted the bums out.

Pay attention. The independent voices will take over the county board this year, and you have too much at stake to be buried in your snowmobile this winter.

Vote. There never has been a more dramatic demonstration of the power you have in one "side trip" to the voting booth before you go to work on Election Day.

As long as the leaders of this county's Republican party can depend on you not paying attention, they're going to keep on trying to ram things down your throat. And, you will complain.

Keep doing what you're doing, and you'll keep getting what you've got.

But, Tuesday, March 19, you showed that "You've had it, and you're not going to take it any more."

To the people who voted: I congratulate you on a good job.

Editor's note: Larry Leafblad represents a Lake County Board district including the Round Lake area, Highland Lake, Village of Third Lake and part of Grayslake. He won renomination in the March 19 primary.

ANAD helps family, friends deal with eating disorders

Last winter, Jan Fisher looked around for a support group to help him deal with a friend who had an eating disorder.

"I couldn't find any groups for friends and family," he explained. "If I wanted a group the only way to get one was to start it myself."

He registered with the National Association of Anorexia Nervosa and Associated Disorders and began holding monthly meetings at his Ingleside home. The response was slow at first, but he soon attracted interest from people all over the county, including some who attended a screening at the College of Lake County and students from not only Antioch Community High School but a junior high school.

"The tragic thing about this is that they're starting younger and younger," said Fisher. "This group is both for people who have an eating disorder and for their friends and family."

Because the membership in his group is building so rapidly, weekly meetings will be held at 7 p.m. each Friday beginning April 12 in Room C131 at the College of Lake County.

'Spring clean your exercise attitude' at Condell

NutriQuest program offers ways to overcome excuses

Hoping to shape up this spring, shed some unwanted pounds and improve your health? Most of us are. And we also know that regular exercise is important part of maintaining a healthier weight. So why don't we do it?

"People who have not yet made exercise a regular part of their lifestyle often find themselves sabotaged by a few common situations," comments Karen Demski, manager of the NutriQuest program offered by Condell's Medical Center Health Institute (MCHI) located in Centre Club, 200 W. Golf Rd., Libertyville. "We all know that we should get regular exercise for our overall health, as well as to assist in weight control, but our lives provide us with plenty of excuses to avoid it," she adds.

Demski says successfully incorporating an exercise program requires some spring cleaning of our attitudes about exercise and then addressing these excuses or concerns before they arise and determining how we will deal with them.

The following are some common excuses that we all use for not exercising, and ideas from Demski for overcoming them:

• I'm too busy.

"Keep an activity diary for one week. Log the time you spend on every activity. Include office time, along. It won't take more than a few outings to prove to yourself that the fresh air exercise will increase your energy level for the next few hours."

• I just can't get started on an exercise program.

"Pick something you enjoy.

'Including several physical activities which you enjoy will keep your interest high, and stave off boredom.'

Karen Demski
manager of the NutriQuest program childcare, household chores, cooking entertainment, television viewing, reading, etc. Then explore ways with your family to combine, delegate, or eliminate some activities to create three 20 minute slots per week for exercise."

• I'm just too tired.

"Remind yourself that regular exercise will give you more, not less, energy. Experiment at least twice with this idea by committing to take a 20 minute walk before you begin dinner preparations. Take your dog or children Don't be influenced by another's preferences. Attempting to force yourself to regularly perform a fitness activity you hate is foolish. Consider swimming, walking, tennis, rowing, or another activity to get you started. Once your energy and endurance levels are improved, you may find yourself drawn to other kinds of exercise."

• I always start out great—then I get bored and give up.

"Variety and 'rest' days will keep you going. Many people who are not used to regular exercise go overboard, telling themselves they will engage in a specific fitness activity (such as running or aerobics) every day or several times a week. The activity quickly loses its appeal and the unrealistic goal of exercising daily can't be maintained. No wonder interest evaporates. Including several physical activities which you enjoy will keep your interest high, and stave off boredom. Remember to take at least two 'rest' days per week, and give yourself permission not to exercise. You'll find yourself looking forward to the next exercise day."

Program helps women kick the smoking habit

Weight gain occurs so commonly after quitting smoking that it can seem inevitable. Various attempts to prevent post-cessation weight gain have either proved ineffective or had the adverse effect of increasing the risk for relapse to smoking. In an NIH-funded trial that is open to community members, psychologists Bonnie Spring, Ph.D. and Gina Pingitore, Ph.D. are testing a promising behavioral treatment that may offer smokers the health benefits of quitting smoking without unwanted weight gain.

The program philosophy is that most prior-treatment approaches have failed because of their overwhelming complexity. "Eating and smoking are both very complicated behaviors that permeate the person's lifestyle," says Spring. "We take a very gradual approach by making changes in one arena and then letting the person become comfortable with them before making any changes in the other domain." To help life continue to feel gratifying, therapy groups work hard to identify new rewards.

Spring and Pingitore's current NIH grant provides free stop smoking treatment to female smokers. The research focuses on women because they gain slightly more weight than men after quitting smoking and because they experience greater cultural pressures to remain slim. If the trial is successful, future studies will be extended to men. All interested participants should call Study Coordinator Karen Russell at 578-3311.

Tips on getting right help from tax preparers

Selecting a tax preparer should not be a decision made casually or quickly. There is more at stake than you may realize. The Illinois CPA Society points out that the right tax preparer can help you better understand how tax laws affect your situation, ensure that you do not overlook valuable deductions, and keep you out of trouble with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). Finding such a preparer does not necessarily take a lot of money, but it can take some time, which is why you should begin your search now.

Keep in mind that there are virtually no licensing requirements for becoming a tax preparer. Almost anyone can hang out a shingle and advertise tax expertise. It is up to you to find out the individual's qualifications and to determine whether the preparer is appropriate given your budget and the complexity of your return.

There are four main categories of preparers:

Commercial preparer

This group is comprised of large nationwide organizations that hire individuals to work for them during tax season. It also includes independent commercial preparers. Although the costs for using these preparers is at the low end of the scale, many of them do not have extensive training. That does not mean that they are not qualified to help you—just that they may not be the wisest choice if your tax return is complicated, or if you are hoping to obtain some tax-planning advice for the future.

Enrolled agents

Enrolled agents generally have more training than commercial preparers and are qualified to represent you before the IRS should your tax return be audited. These individuals typically have worked for the IRS as tax auditors for at least five years, or passed a two-day examination on tax-related subject. However, be aware that their level and range of expertise can vary widely.

Attorneys

Attorneys are a good choice as tax preparers if you have a tax return that is affected by a legally complicated business issue. Typically, attorneys are not involved in preparing the average tax return, but are qualified to represent your interests before the IRS.

Certified Public Accountants (CPAs)

CPAs are the most extensively trained and experienced tax advisers. In addition to preparing your tax return, most CPAs can assist you with other tax issues and help you develop a tax-planning strategy. Like enrolled agents and attorney, CPAs are qualified to represent your interests before the IRS.

Regardless of the preparer's credentials or years of experience, there are other key issues to address. For example, you need to query a preparer as to what he or she charges for preparing your return, as well as to what extent he or she expects you to be involved in the preparation process. Also, determine if the preparer has experience dealing with some of the tax issues you are currently confronting. Finally, find out the preparers' scope of services. For example, determine if he or she would be willing (and able) to provide you with tax-planning advice as issues arise.

Although there may be situations where it is appropriate for tax preparers to base their fee on a percentage of a tax refund (a contingent fee), you should generally avoid preparers who charge contingent fees for original return preparation. Also stay away from preparers who guarantee you a refund or are unwilling to sign your return.

Keep in mind that the more you can help your tax preparer, the more you will help yourself. By providing the preparer with organized records and informing him or her about situations affecting your tax status and liability, you may not only save money, but you will also help the preparer avoid mistakes.

CPAs point out that while tax preparers are subject to penalties if the understate your taxes, you are also financially and legally responsible for your own tax return. When you sign the return, you assume responsibility for its accuracy along with your tax preparer.

To learn more about selecting the right accountant, send a self-addressed envelope to the Illinois CPA Society and request a copy of the brochure, How to Choose and Use a CPA.

Midlane swells with lively activity from day to night

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth is fast growing as a feast for county residents and out-of-towners seeking recreation.

A common misnomer that many people believe is that while your eyes may see a most stately group of structures accompanied by the name "country club," it should not be feared.

Office Manager Barb Mismash explained the name can connote all kinds of things. But at Midlane one doesn't have to be a member to join in on the fun!

In fact the variety recreation/dining place is so popular, it was voted as one of the top night spots in the county according to Lakeland readers.

There's also a lot to offer during the day at Midlane.

A restaurant adjacent to the Loft has some excellent cuisine at very affordable prices. Those interested in getting meals at Midlane can be served lunch only from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The head chef cooks up an array of mouth-watering entrees including everything from Mexican specialties to numerous styles of omelets. A total of 60 items cover the menu.

While no one is expected to come in dresses and suit coats and ties only, there is a modest dress code at Midlane. Golf wear including shorts and collared shirts are acceptable, but no tattered or torn jeans are allowed.

The Loft nightclub located within the country club tops nighttime weekend activity at Midlane.

The newly renovated nightclub has been bringing in people from all over the county and then some, explained the manager. In fact on the weekends guests travel all the way from Chicago to dance and enjoy the night-life ambiance at Midlane.

Many times the nightclub will have a packed house on the weekends, due to the fun offered.

The house disc jockey always puts on a good show starting at 9 p.m. The nightclub is open on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday evenings from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. In the warmer months golfers and duffers from all over are seen flocking to the beautiful 27-hole golf course at Midlane. An addition was done to make it larger just last year.

A new grill offering sandwiches and other fast food-type items is located on the course.

There's a brand new in-ground swimming pool at Midlane which is slated to be open by June. Planned will be daily rates for swimmers.

The banquet facilities at Midlane are renowned. A number of social and corporate events take place at the hall, including everything from bar mitzvah to baptisms.

Each year the Little Miss Wadsworth and the Miss Wadsworth pageants are held at the facility.

Many about to tie the knot have already booked the hall for their weddings, so reservations as soon as possible are recommended.

Midlane Country Club is located on Yorkhouse Road. For more information call (847) 360-0550.

Desire to help others motivates career change

When Regina Penny was a teenager she volunteered as a candy striper working with the elderly. As she grew into adulthood, she held a variety of jobs including working as a customer service representative for a dental assistant, but something was always missing from the job—a sense of satisfaction.

Two years ago, Penny, 37, left her job as a supervisor of customer service to work as a home care provider for Lifestyle Options.

"I felt a desire to help those in need," said Penny, a resident of Lindenhurst. "It kept gnawing at me that I wasn't working in the right career field. I feel I was called to do this type of work."

Penny is now working as a certified nursing assistant providing custodial care to the residents of Hawthorn Lakes Retirement Community in Vernon Hills.

"I provide custodial care which means I give baths, help residents get ready for the day and run errands for them," said Penny. "I really enjoy working with them. They have a lot of wisdom to pass on."

Working in custodial care is different from nursing home care because the residents do not need full-time help, just assistance with selected tasks.

"The amount of assistance each resident requires is different," said Penny, who works with the same group of residents at Hawthorn Lakes Retirement Community. "My job is about making life easier for the residents."

Penny says the job is very different from her previous Hawthorn Lakes Retirement Community resident Verna Speake spends some time visiting with Lindenhurst resident Regina Penny. Penny made a career change two years ago to work as a certified nursing assistant to help elderly individuals. The occupation is a growing career field as the population ages.

positions. She worked as a dental assistant for nine years and a customer service supervisor for six years. Changing occupations to being a certified nursing assistant also meant a drop in pay. The decision to switch jobs was a joint one between Penny and her husband, Dan Penny.

"I find that my life is more livable now," said Penny. "I made more money before but I also had the stress that comes with that type of position. I find working with and helping people much more enjoyable."

Another way in which Penny fulfills her desire to help others is by working with Public Action to Deliver

Shelter—PADS.

"I felt like God was calling me to do more," said Penny. "That's when I began to volunteer at PADS. I really enjoy assisting the homeless. I gives you a great sense of satisfaction to know you are working to help others. I feel much more at peace today."

Penny says one of the many rewards of her job is having the opportunity to hear the stories of those she assists.

"It's wonderful to share in their lives and their stories," said Penny. "I enjoying working and talking to them."

Imagine for yourself that after years of living independently, you can no longer take a shower without assistance or run simple errands outside of the home.

As America's population ages, many find themselves facing that dilemma each day—their limitations are not so severe as to need around-the-clock nursing home care but they do need assistance with certain tasks.

"The reason I started this company was to effect a change in the healthcare system I know so intimately... to offer options," said Molly K. Miceli, founder and CEO of Lifestyle Options, a Rolling Meadows based home-care company. "When I'm 80, I want to be able to stay at home if I choose to do so. If I decide to move to a more sheltered environment, I'd like to have an alternative to a nursing home."

And so the dream began at Miceli's kitchen table in the late 1980s. A veteran of the healthcare field since she was 16 years old, Miceli realized the industry was not adequately addressing the needs of a growing under-served population. Miceli believes this group, primary older adults, deserved choices that would allow them to age gracefully, while maintaining their dignity, in the surroundings they prefer. The idea was born to plan for healthcare options that would not disrupt the basic living arrangements of the older adult.

By March 1990, Lifestyle Options, so named for its specialization in providing a selection of services to the senior population, was up and running. The company developed an extensive menu of non-medical service to offer clients in need. Lifestyle Options specializes in services such as grocery shopping, companionship, light housekeeping, meal preparation and assistance with activities of daily living.

Today, Lifestyle Options, has 400 employees—like Regina Penny of Lindenhurst. The company's growth can be attributed to many factors but can be narrowed down to a combination of three key elements: the "professionalization" of a previously undefined industry, attention to detail and a dedicated staff that works as a team.

The need continues to rise and the company continues to grow.

"We have clients throughout the Chicagoland area in retirement communities as well as individual homes," said Miceli. "Our creed is to enable older adults to remain in their own homes as long as possible with dignity and grace."

Because the needs are ever increasing so are the opportunities in the occupational field.

"This is really a growing field that needs well-qualified caring individuals," Miceli said. "It is our hope that people will see this type of work as a career opportunity. There is a lot of room for career progression and a tremendous opportunity for rewards."

Miceli says individuals are needed in the career field who have the ability to anticipate the needs of clients and who find such working rewarding.

"What we are looking for in an employee is what you would look for when hiring someone to take care of your mother," said Miceli. "The field is growing and the need and rewards of this work are tremendous." — by RHONDA HETRICK BURKE

Visit Europe Without Leaving the Warm Caribbean

by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Want a taste of European and the sun, sand and surf of the Caribbean? Consider a cruise visiting the Southern Caribbean. After the Dutch kicked the Spaniards off of Curacao in 1634, they turned the island into a tropical Holland in miniature. The spectacular houses fronting the Grand Harbor made me think I was looking at the narrow mansions lining Holland's canals. Indeed, these works of architectural art make Curacao the most important island architecturally in the entire West Indies. Exiting casinos and an average temperature of 81 degrees make Curacao an island not to miss. Our substitute for a French port would have to be Martinique in the French West Indies. Empress Josephine of France called this island home as did Madame de Maintenon, mistress of Louis XIV. Martinique is still considered to have the most beautiful women in the West Indies. Martinique's terrain runs from miles of sandy beaches to mountains rising to 4,600 ft. Martinique was called the Island of Flowers by the Carib Indians. A tour of the interior of this lush island will leave little doubt as to why. For a taste of old Spain, a visit to the island of Puerto Rico is just the ticket. Under Spanish rule for almost four centuries, Puerto Rico retains the flavor of Old Spain. A walking tour of the walled city of Old San Juan is a five hundred year step back in history. With one half of the island belonging to the Dutch (St. Maarten) and the other under French rule (St. Maarten), a visitor can experience two European cultures within an area of only 37 square miles. This island is the perfect place to rent a moped, buy some Dutch cheese and French wine and head out for a picnic on a remote beach. Night life?? Choose one of the island's eight casinos or fast paced discos. I have only touched on the diverse character and European influence of our island nations to the south. Many other early societies settled the hundreds of Caribbean islands bringing with them their cultures from old world Europe.

In this attractive south of the border atmosphere, they have found a Latin culinary adventure beyond compare, one that starts with delicious appetizers such as Terry's Texas torpedoes, spicy chicken wings or spinach and mushroom quesadillas.

derlion Chilaqueles, peppered chicken, Tornadoes de la Casa, or Paella for two, not to mention Nachos Imperial for two. Friday and Saturday menu favorites include Chipotle flavored roast duck, chicken, pork and beef tenderloin from the rotisserie. A special finish to a special meal should be one of Terry's famous homemade desserts such as ice cream pie, cherry or apple Chimichanga, or the delectable mousse of the day.

Well-known Chicago area Epicurean and restaurant critic Sherman Kaplan agrees with Terry's favorite customers by giving this palate pleasing food an enthusiastic thumbs up with 16K out of a possible 20.

-CRITIC'S CHOICE-

'Arcadia' proves to be ingenious stewpot

Tom Stoppard's latest creation, "Arcadia," is an ingenious stewpot that smoothly mixes cerebral mathematical and philosophical concepts with down-and-dirty humor, romance and mystery.

A single, multi-windowed room in Sidley Park, an elegant English manor house, commands the stage at Chicago's Goodman Theatre: one setting for two time frames, 1809 and the present. Scenes shift between the time zones.

Thomasina, a 13-year-old prodigy, studies under Septimus, her tutor, as the play unfolds. Later, Hannah, a scholar, spars with Bernard Nightingale, an ego-centric researcher determined to reconcile a theory involving the poet Lord Byron and his connection with activities that went on at the estate.

One need not be versed in the concepts of iterated algorithms and the picturesque style of gardening ("nature as God intended") to appreciate "Arcadia." The dialogue is rich and thought-provoking, but its story always comes back to human relationships and how various characters speculate on the meaning of life and seek to interpret history with the thinnest of connecting threads.

Expertly directed by Michael Maggio, the play elicits stunning performances all around. Especially noteworthy are Patrick Clear as the explosive academic who is locked in fiery confrontation with Kristine Thatcher as an equally ambitious scholar. Fleur Phillips, the innocent pupil, and Steve Cell, her instructor, waltz around the chaos theory and other heavy subjects and end up doing a waltz as well.

"Arcadia" will continue through April 14. Ticket information is available at (312)443-3800.—by TOM WITOM

Once upon a royal divorce

Dear Diana,

I hate to be blunt, girlfriend, but—it's about time you dumped him!

Of course, I didn't always feel this way. At first, when you and Chuckie became engaged, I thought you were the ultimate "fairy tale" couple. A beautiful, shy girl meets the Prince of England, an older bachelor who seems chivalrous and worldly, if a little (c'mon, admit it) boring. Although he wasn't much to look at (let's be honest—the man could be a stunt double for Dumbo), he had a lot of other things to offer a girl—castles, servants, riches and fame. You could have done a lot worse.

And then there was your wedding—talk about pomp and circumstance, honey! You had it all—the dress, the jewels, and the Prince in his royal duds. Anybody who was anybody was there. What more could a girl ask for? We were all thrilled for you. (OK—we were all jealous, too—I mean, just think how much better we could have looked in our wedding pictures with the Royal Palace in the background instead of the VFW hall.)

As for England, they never knew what hit them. Finally, there was someone in the palace more photogenic than the Queen's Corgi dogs. Someone with smaller ears. Someone with a personality.

Not only that, but you produced two handsome sons, heirs to the throne of England. How Camille (blond hair, two legs, at left), Spunky (brown mane, four legs, at right) and Chuck (the cad).

Just who did he think he was fooling, anyway? The odds that the Prince of England could conduct an affair in secret is about equal to the odds that OJ could flee the country in his Bronco accompanied by the presence of many girls can say they gave birth to a future King, except maybe Elvis's mother?

LIFE'S A BEAR

Yes, considering that most of us have to find happiness with a lot less, everything should have been perfect, right? Okay, maybe you did sneak off to the bathroom and throw up once in a while. Big deal. It's not like Chuck had to clean up after you. And between you and me, the thought that someone might take a picture of my back end in a bathing suit and sell it to the National Enquirer would make me want to lose my lunch, too.

So imagine my shock when those articles started appearing, hinting that old Chuckie boy had a girlfriend on the side. It was even more shocking when I saw a picture of the "hussy." She looked...old. And she wasn't exactly attractive, either. For example, if you stood her next to Chuck on a polo pony, you would have to label the picture this way:

hundreds of TV cameras in helicopters. Either way, the words "bloody idiot" spring to mind.

Furthermore, I say part of the blame has to go to your mother-in-law, Queen Elizabeth. He is her son, after all. She bears some responsibility for how he turned out. Or maybe not, since nannies did most of the work. Maybe we should look into this nanny thing. Could it be Chuckie's nannies were abusive? I, for one, think he had his ears boxed on a daily basis.

Anyway, considering the humiliation he's put you through, it's no wonder that you finally decided to divorce him. Not many women in this world would choose to remain married to a man who whispers to his secret lover, "I wish I was a Tampax."

Just between us, girlfriend—I think that when you and your lawyers are finished with him, he's going to get his wish!

Your Friend,
Donna

Movie Pick

'Decision' fodder for action lovers

For those of you who still haven't got enough of the action thrillers of such macho men as Stephen, Sly, Arnold, Bruce, Wesley, Mel, etc., etc., etc., have we got a movie for you!

"Executive Decision" has the magic touch of Producer Joel Silver and Director Stuart Baird, in whose hands high powered movies such as "Lethal Weapon," "Superman," "Die Hard," etc., etc., became box-office smashes.

Not only do we have reels and reels of exalting explosions, tense tenacity, bloody blandishments and fantastic feats, but this is also a buddy flick, at least for a short time, as Stephen Seagal and Kurt Russell lead a band of commandos to rescue a 747 passenger jet from the hands of terrorists.

To further complicate matters, the jet is loaded with nerve gas and aimed at Washington, D.C. with the destruction of the eastern seaboard of the U.S.A. the diabolical master plan.

Of course everything from the boarding of the jet with the use of a mini plane on is ridiculous, but so were all of Superman's feats,

Kurt Russell

Bruce's antics in the high rise and at the airport and Arnold's adventures any and everywhere!

The beautiful Halle Berry, a flight attendant, becomes the SWAT Team's inside man, as they observe the terrorists' activities with the use of minute mini video cameras.

Our chief Arab villain is played by the menacing religious fanatic David Suchet.

The tension is high and the players polished as the action races forward at the speed of light with a one-more-time ending.

"Decision" carries an "R" rating specifically because of all the blood and mayhem.

On a scale of one to five, we give this latest macho fantasy 3.5 out of five stars for the polished and professional attitude that makes it more than the average action adventure.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You're charismatic and a joy to be with this week. Singles are apt to meet with romantic introductions unexpectedly. In general, things are going pretty much your way now. This weekend is a great time to get out and about and enjoy social activities.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Early in the week, a social function connected with work brings career opportunity. Be sure you explore how best to take advantage of this good fortune. The weekend brings a positive financial development for the whole family.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Couples will want time for just themselves this week. However, this isn't really possible until work is out of the way. Good news may come about a financial matter. New inspirations relate to business.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It's a lovely week for interests of the heart and activities with children. Couples are on the same happy wavelength as well. Don't let all this good feeling sway you from tasks at hand. Otherwise, part of your weekend is spent making up for lost time.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Benefits come through friendship early in the week. Some are invited to visit friends who live far away. Singles find their romantic prospects are excellent at this time. This weekend, accept social invitations.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You'll be happily engaged most of the week with a do-it yourself project or work brought home from the office. As the week progresses, you feel the need to kick up your heels a bit. The weekend is excellent for entertaining guests at home.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Business and pleasure combine happily now to your best advantage. Couples make happy decisions involving the use of joint funds. Perhaps it's time to splurge on that home-improvement project you've been contemplating.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) It is easy to reach agreements with others. Some will be enjoying local sightseeing early in the week or an exciting day trip to somewhere special. This weekend, leisure events and romance are happily highlighted.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The emphasis this week is strongly on partnership and cooperation. At home, your feelings for your mate grow stronger. Later in the week, you meet some interesting people in a social setting.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You could be making a major purchase for your home this week. Some will receive a gift or favor from a family member which doesn't require reciprocation. This weekend, there's a happy emphasis on domestic interests.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) It's your charm and friendliness that will open doors for you this week rather than your intellect per se. Others are impressed by what you have to say later in the week. This weekend, enjoy leisure events and happy romance.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It's worth your while to look for bargains if you're out and about shopping this week. Despite pressing demands at work, rest and relaxation will appeal to you. You need to pace yourself so that you can accommodate this feeling.

Medicare supplement premium comparison guides available

Illinois Insurance Director Mark Boozell announced that the 1996 edition of the Medicare Supplement Premium Comparison Guide is available from the Department of Insurance.

For each insurance company licensed to sell Medicare supplement insurance in Illinois, the guide lists the premiums charged for each of the 10 standardized insurance plans, the waiting period for pre-existing health conditions, the insurer's application processing fee, and whether Medicare will submit Part B claims directly to the company.

This year's guide also includes information on Medicare supplements for disabled persons under age 65, and lists 10 companies that offer that coverage. Another section explains Medicare Select insurance which requires the Medicare beneficiary to use specific health care providers.

"The premium comparison guides have proven very popular with Illinois citizens shopping for Medicare supplements for themselves or a loved one," Boozell said. "Because insurance prices vary according to the costs of health care in different parts of the state, we publish separate guides for southern Illinois, central Illinois and the Chicago area. The regional guides ensure that the premiums listed are as accurate as possible."

The guide may be obtained by writing to the Senior Health Insurance Program, Illinois Dept. of Insurance, 320 W. Washington St., Springfield, IL 62767.

We think not

Mr. Spina, you know who you are. Haven't you learned your lesson? Your dog is still chained out in front of the store. As long as you continue to chain, neglect, and possibly abuse this dog, there's no reason to do business in your store, nor will anyone bother to go in and read your rebuttal. If you think you're a good dog owner, we think not.

No more charm

The signs say welcome as you enter each village. Welcome to overpopulated tract housing, overcrowded schools, good luck roadways, etc. There is no country charm anymore, just the opposite of why I chose to live here years ago. One thing that hasn't changed is miscommunication between each taxing body. It's already too late to get their acts together. For your misleading promises, you are forcing many foreclosures on homes. You are driving people away and property owners that are new to the area haven't realized their mistake until they get their tax bill.

What a waste

This is in response to the person who called about Illinois needing an illegal alien law. For a person who majored at the University of Illinois, what a wasted shame of an education. Had you done your research before calling in, you would have already known that Illinois does have an illegal alien law. As a female Hispanic (Puerto Rican-American), I too have majored at a university. I have always been taught that you must graciously look at a person for who they are and not for the gender, race or cultural background. I can see that you were raised in the middle of a corn field, to share your philosophy with the jackasses. But how you majored in philosophy and what it has to do with illegal alien laws is beyond me. So, as an educated Hispanic, let me give you the definition of philosophy. Philosophy comes from two Greek words: "philos," meaning love and "sophia," meaning wisdom, ethmologically, philosophy meaning "love of wisdom." You believe Hispanics should not be allowed in this country, in all your infinite wisdom. You really have a lot of nerve. I'd advise you to search deep into your roots. Somewhere down your golden blood line, I'm positive you have family members who have come here from another country. Do you suppose that makes them aliens? As for the benefits, did you know that the highest percentage of people on state funded programs are white Anglo Saxons? We Hispanics work hard to get ahead and do everything possible to raise our children to be the best they can be, even taking on the minimum wage jobs that you Anglos are too proud to take. We even take less than the minimum wage and work harder than you could ever imagine. Because of a few, you stereotype all Hispanics. How white of you.

Fix 'em already

I live in Round Lake Beach on the same street where the house burned down. I'd like to thank Mayor Davis for having two guys come out and literally put a wrench on the fire hydrant that they already knows doesn't work for 10 seconds, get in their trucks and drive away. Hey, Ralph, fix the things instead of playing with them. Why don't you clean up the village while you're at it?

Count blessings

I'm so tired of hearing all the complaints in Lipservice about how hard it is to deal with neighbors. You all sound so childish. My daughter has many physical and developmental delays and recently came out of a hospital for children. While we were there, I was reminded how petty most people's so-called problems really are. I was so happy when they said I could take her home. So many kids pass through the doors of hospitals and never go home again. I bet you could learn a lot from the kids that pass through those doors. They're a hell of a lot more mature than you'll ever be.

Will cost us all

This is in response to the lady who said the opponents of 53 said so because they live near it. I live near the Wisconsin border and I oppose 53 because of the developmental havoc and suburban sprawl it's going to bring to southwest Lake County. Ultimately, it will cost all of us in terms of increased traffic, schools, air pollution, congestion, etc. It should be stopped now.

Running errands

Here's another fine example of how the taxpayers of Round Lake Beach lose out. I was paying my water bill at the village when the school bus pulled up and the driver got out to pay her water bill. Our tax dollars should not be used for bus drivers to run errands on our time and with our buses. Dist. 116 should keep a better eye on their employees and maybe we won't be in such financial ruin.

No more congestion

I live in Round Lake Beach and the condition of the roads are deplorable. They're so bad with asphalt coming up and potholes, etc. I don't think the village needs to waste money to do a traffic study to decide whether or not they should put a Jiffy Lube on the corner of Hainesville and Rollins Roads. All you have to do is stand there for 10 minutes to realize they don't need any more congestion there.

Thanks for info

I'm a business owner on Route 83 in Antioch. I want to thank Judy Martini, county board member, for informing me of the Route 83 expansion. If it wasn't for her, I wouldn't have known what was going on. I've talked to other business owners and they're also concerned about the expansion taking away additional right of ways for their businesses. Thanks to Judy Martini for keeping us informed. Keep up the good work!

We need trustees

Let's not worry about Carl Schrimpf and Ralph Davis, but about who our trustees are. We have two new trustees, Rich Hill and Gina Miosi, that promised they were getting rid of the utility tax. We still have that and they've added one to our water bill. It takes the trustees to run the village. They're the ones voting on issues. Let's make certain we get four trustees that have experience in finances. That's what the village needs.

Not a good idea

The mayor of Fox Lake is calling an early meeting with the trustees on hiring a city manager. I don't believe it's a good idea, simply because we have an election coming in a year and we may have a new mayor and trustees that aren't in favor of having a city manager. Not only that, where do they think the money is coming from?

Penny-pincher

Hey, Mayor Davis, quit trying to pass the blame on the fire department. Accept the fact you're trying to penny-pinch the village by cutting back on important services such as hydrant maintenance. By the way, Ralph, are you also tied to the school board because of the way it runs also?

Save the band

Lake Villa School Dist. parents, do you know the school board wants to cut fifth grade band beginning with next school year? Do you know this will not save taxpayers money, because the parents buy or rent instruments? The board wants to be able to tell taxpayers they're making cuts, but this is a useless cut. Every parent who has a child in band in Lake Villa should call or write Dr. Simon and the school board members and express their support for the band. Save our band!

Is it too late?

Mayor Davis should have been thinking of saving our water system and repairing our water system in the Beach long before he decided to put an expensive roof on the village hall or remodeling his office or even paint his village car which didn't need it. Get your priorities straight, Mayor. And do it now. Elections are coming up. It might be too late now.

Be positive

I'm from Antioch and just read the weekly Vern Holmes column. I'm glad to see his criticisms can extend beyond the local school district. I guess my concern comes in because I think it's a shame that any responsible newspaper allows one individual to use the paper as an outlet to voice his own personal and ill-informed opinions as facts. I truly feel sorry for Vern Holmes, he must be a very lonely person who never looks at the bright side of a situation. He must have a lot of time on his hands, so why doesn't he use it positively? Instead of criticizing the school from the outside, why doesn't he get involved when he can not only do some good, but actually learn the truth about issues he professes to know so much about. They're always looking for volunteers to help out. The opinions of people who criticize but don't get involved to make changes, should only be heard by deaf ears. Until he decides to take positive action, his opinions have no validity.

Don't listen

Rumors are running rampant in Venetian Village that they could be gobbled up by Round Lake. See LIPSERVICE page B21

each. Reality check: your sewers will be serviced by Lindenhurst. Don't listen to the rumors being put out by the present county board member.

Unconstitutional

When is the administration of Warren Twp. High going to start supporting academically talented students instead of discriminating against them? I'm not only angry, but think it's unconstitutional to require a student to pay money to attend summer school in order to enroll in honors science class as a freshman. The only alternative for these students is to take basic science class or to pass an extremely difficult test intended to fail even the brightest students. And for musically talented students who wish to participate in jazz band, too bad, you have to take health instead. That is, unless you want to pay more money and take health in summer school. Come on, Warren, don't you know you're here to educate students, not to intimidate them? Especially those who are ambitious enough to want to take more challenging classes?

Thanks, Liza

I want to say thank you, Trustee Liza Johnson, the only Wauconda trustee who stood up for the trailer park people. In the comprehensive plan meeting, she suggested the word "inferior" be taken out of the plan in reference to trailer park housing. Makes you wonder how the zoning board committee missed that wording for nine months. Maybe they haven't been reading it so well. Thanks again, Liza!

Give her a Jingle

Please, someone, call Jingle from Pringle. Give her something to write about besides herself!

Peculiar motives

This is in regard to the controversial development at Route 59 and Rollins Road, Rainier Woods. I understand Mayor Ken Hamsher announced during a board meeting that he's going to buy a townhome, even though the developer hasn't met all the county requirements. I find it peculiar that the mayor announces such things, unless he wants to get this project moving along. I question the mayor's motives on this.

Go smoke-free

I've got the answer to much of the problems at Gurnee Mills. Why don't we adopt a 1990 idea and make Gurnee Mills a smoke-free store? Adults can smoke in their homes or cars. The kids who cause trouble will have to quit smoking and congregating in the food courts, if they're not allowed to buy cigarettes and smoke there.

Robbed zero

In response to "Highway robbery," the Country Walk residents who say that impact fees improve schools. Unfortunately, the people in Country Walk paid zero impact fees for Dist. 41. The villages of the various Round Lakes refuse to honor Dist. 41's impact fees schedule. When Country Walk went in, Dist. 41 got zero impact fees.

Clinton looks better

The Republicans are in such disarray that President Clinton looks better and better every day. To me, Dole is too old. He speaks the same 12 words at every campaign stop. Buchanan is far too extreme. Forbes is far too rich and doesn't even pay income taxes. And Lamar is a Washington has-been pretending to be an outsider. Bring on the Democrats in November. We made a mistake in 1994.

Reinstate officer

Chief of Police Rose of Mundelein is slap-happy for firing an officer for slapping a disorderly Hispanic for hiding evidence. If I were the parent of this lad, I would thank this courageous officer. He should be reinstated.

Objects to ignorance

My name is Susan Witte and I'm appalled by the bigoted philosophy major who objects to our Spanish neighbors. Maybe you're the one who should move. Most of us don't object to diverse nationalities, but we do object to ignorance, stupidity, and racism such as yours. You have proven a degree does not always reflect intelligence.

Let's pull together

I'm calling in response to the "Need alien law." I feel our nation is made up of immigrants. Every one of us has ancestors that were immigrants except for Native Americans. For someone to say Hispanics shouldn't be allowed in the country is hypocritical because they themselves or their forefathers were once immigrants. I'm not an immigrant, but I am of Irish and German heritage. When the Irish first came here, they were treated much like the Hispanics are treated today, like second class citizens. I think it's time Americans pulled together and stood up for each other. We should enjoy our heritages and make it a strength of our nation, not a failure of it.

Saving 'em up

I called in response to the person who wrote to build Route 53 according to the old plan. Later I found out several other people called Lipservice and none were printed. Are you afraid to let your readers know just how many people oppose Route 53, or were there so many calls that you're saving them all for the next several publications? What's going on? Editor's note: There is only so much space allotted for the Lipservice column and not every message gets in the week it is called in. Lipservice comments appear in the order in which they are called in.

Just leave

I'm leaving a message for the person who said we need an alien law. You're a fool and an idiot. There's plenty of Americans who make trouble in Round Lake. If you don't like it, just leave.

Build a fence

I think the recent situation in Mundelein where the policeman was fired for allegedly hitting a Hispanic youth is ridiculous. The police chief then turns around and says we have a lot of Hispanics in Mundelein and we can't offend them. We just created another group of illegal citizens who are allowed to do anything they want because we can't hurt them because they're a minority. Get them out of here and build a fence along that border quick before we have a second underclass in addition to the one we have now. You can thank the liberals and Democrats for this, for their weak immigration laws.

Don't deserve rights

This call is to offer support for Officer Charles Tomaglio at the Mundelein Police Department. It's too bad the young person supposedly accused of drunk driving was not dealt with in a more harmful manner. We do support the officer because it's sad that he had witnesses. Drunk drivers should not have rights.

I agree?

I'm from Fox Lake and want to agree with the person who learned about racism by studying philosophy. I agree we need an illegal alien law. We should go further with it by not only not allowing Hispanics in the country, but anyone whose forebears come from any country in Europe. We should make it retroactive by about 300 or 400 years.

Prevent blowing

Dear neighbors in the southern section of Haryan Farms. Please put something heavy on your recyclables so they won't blow all over the neighborhood every Tuesday and Wednesday.

Ended up ignorant

I'm calling in response to the comments on "Need alien law." Not all Hispanics are illegal aliens. There's a variety of nationalities; Mexican, Cuban, Puerto Rican, Spaniards, just to name a few. Puerto Ricans, for example, have citizenship, as Puerto Rico is a commonwealth of the United States. How naive of you to stereotype every Hispanic based on the actions of a few. Unfortunately, there are shady characters in every culture. So you majored in philosophy, good for you. That just proves to show a waste of education. You ended up just plain ignorant.

Deserves an F

This is in response to "Alien law." Majored in philosophy at U of I? I'm a white guy who employs many Mexican people. I have the greatest respect for all my employees. I'm completely repulsed by your comments and hope you get a D or F in philosophy, as you deserve it!

Give her some help

In answer to "Double dipping," the management of Waste Management are obviously much smarter than the boneheads who run our villages. Someone even managed to talk Charlene Beyer into paying $15,000 for a tape recorder for the police department, even though you can get something that does the same thing for $50 at Radio Shack. The mayor tries hard, but isn't very business-wise, so sometimes she gets taken. Maybe someone should give her some help.

Recycling costs

First of all, I think Lipservice is great. I'm really interested in knowing what everyone thinks. I'm calling in response to "Double dipping," on why Waste Management charges for picking up recycling. This is something that most people aren't aware of, but recycling costs money. There's a lot of costs involved. Eventually, the cost will come down when people try to buy products made of recycled content. That way, there's a market for the things we put out at our curb. When that happens, people will get more money for the recyclables and we won't have to pay for it. What we'll have to pay for is the stuff we can't recycle. See LIPSERVICE page B22

Speed limit is safety

This is Jane Reentz from Wauconda. I'm calling about the new speed limit of 25 miles per hour in town, which is fine. But when I go 25 mph, people flip the bird and are very disrespectful. I feel we're teaching our children how to obey the laws. If we can't do it, how do we expect them to when they're older? I've had people pass me in a school zone. I do the speed limit, I don't go below it. People don't realize the speed limit is there for their safety and pedestrians' safety.

Blame government

This is in response to "Need alien law." If you're looking for someone to blame, blame your government. As far as the younger generation not wanting to be successful, why should they? The government will support them later in life when they're adults and have a bunch of kids.

Speak for yourself

In response to "Need alien law," the comments made by someone who majored in philosophy at U of I. Hasty generalization is a philosophical term for taking some characteristics of a small group, i.e. illegal alien, and applying these characteristics to a much larger and independent group, i.e. the Hispanics residing in the Round Lake area. Are we to believe that all illegals come into this country with a road map to Round Lake? I don't think so. You are giving the impression that young Hispanics lack a desire to be successful, but you don't state what your measure of success is. I think success should be measured by the content of one's character. You are quick to point out Hispanics are rude and inconsiderate. I think all people share these characteristics to some degree, myself included. You also made the comment that all non-Hispanics share your opinions. While you are entitled to your opinions and belief, you are not entitled to mine. Making yourself a self-proclaimed spokesperson for all non-Hispanics is rude and inconsiderate. Go back to figuring out which came first, the chicken or the egg, and leave the more important issues to those who are more qualified. But, that's just my opinion.

Zip confusion

There are two zip codes for Hainesville, but only one is listed in the directory. This has caused delivery problems for Federal Express and UPS. It also creates confusion for substitute carriers, resulting in mail delays, misrouted mail, and in some cases, mail returned to sender. The opportunity was there to correct this. At the same time we are to change our house numbers in West Hainesville. Now, if there is a problem, you will have to notify the Postmaster.

Close call

I'm calling from Antioch and want to say I think there should be some crossing gates at the tracks on Depot Street. On Feb. 3, at 7 in the morning, I was crossing them and a train missed me by about 10 feet. The sun was in my eyes and couldn't see the lights going. Crossing gates would be good for the community.

It's a free country

I'm calling in response to "Need alien law." I'm not going to say you are racist, but I'm going to say you're just plain ignorant. Just where did you think your family originated? It wasn't in the United States, it was somewhere in Europe. This was a free country for people to come and live. If you did major in philosophy, I'm sure you can answer this question: what did come first, the chicken or the egg?

Where will money go?

We're watching with interest to see what the village of Grayslake does with the payoff money it gets from the landfill. Will Village Manager Mike Ellis and Mayor Carey push to build a pool for the yuppies or for our kids, which we can all share? Their decision will tell where their hearts lie.

Self-serving bunch

I'm amused by the Wauconda Chamber of Commerce's critical stance on the new commercial development at Routes 12 and 176. The same shopkeepers who loudly voice support for every new tax draining residential development, seem to panic whenever local business competition heats up. I'd say they are a pretty self-serving bunch.

Clean up your act

I was at the show at the new theater in town and the people who sat behind us, I would love to see your house. It must be in the same condition you left the theater. I understand it's hard when you have small children, but we waited a long time for this theater and the least you can do is clean up your area.

Educate yourself

In regard to "Hiding something," it's not one lone homeowner lighting the Pritzker property, it's two. And the homeowner doesn't own the gas station up front and does not own a landscaping business. I work for a Fortune 500 company. If you care to make accusations, come back and look at the property. Educate yourself before you make comments, so you don't come off so ignorantly.

We take back seat

My condolences to the folks living near the proposed Rainier Woods development in Fox Lake. If the developer knew from day one he was going to have a problem with access to Rollins Road, so did Ed Fojtik. He's the chairman of the Public Service Committee's division of transportation. It seems to me this project should not have been bulldozed until all the clout of the division of transportation was satisfied and a few stormwater management issues were addressed. Ed received a hearty endorsement from the village mayor. The mayor said he wanted to buy a townhouse for an investment if they ever get built. Once again it seems that constituents' concerns take a back seat to back room politics. Too bad development is so political. There were some lovely trees and wildlife living on that property.

Let's ask questions

I'm calling from Wadsworth and I saw in the March 1 edition that the Newport Fire Department donated $3,500 to some charity. They also are not having their fireman's dance anymore, their main fund-raiser, because they obviously don't need our tax money anymore. Last year they donated a fire truck to another department. Yet, if they've got such an overstock of money, why haven't my taxes gone down? They guaranteed fire taxes to go down, but they haven't, yet they don't need a fund raiser and they're giving money and equipment away. Let's ask some questions when the fire chief comes up for election.

I thought so

About Waste Management double dipping, that was my thought exactly. We are even saving them the trouble of separating them and still we have to pay extra money. Have you noticed that none of the recycling places are accepting plastic bottles anymore? We almost have to comply with Waste Management if we want to help the environment. Some might argue we have to pay for extra trucks and time, but those should be paid from recycling profits. After all, they're recycling for the good of mankind, right?

Not worth it

County Board Chairman Robert Depke will retire on $79,000 per year; $65,000 from IMRF and $14,000 from Social Security. The whole dang county board isn't worth that kind of money.

Internet provides podium for non-profit organizations

SUZIE REED

Staff Reporter

The potential of high-tech communication has taken another step forward with a web site devoted to non-profit organizations and information.

access.point Inc. went on-line earlier this year with a number of services available to both America On Line [AOL] users and those who explore the World Wide Web.

"After 10 years of working with different non-profit organizations using normal media I was convinced the on-line medium offered even greater possibilities," explained James Clark, founder and president of access.point. "I started a new venture to help these organizations take advantage of the new technology."

The Civic Involvement System, available both on AOL and the World Wide Web, gives civic-minded individuals an electronic site to obtain information on various causes or discuss issues addressed by these groups. Those wanting to become involved can also arrange to volunteer time and donate money.

Another service is targeted for the professional audience, said Clark. Nonprofit Professionals Network offers resources and support data for organizations.

"It's information that people who work in non-profit organizations can use," he explained.

An outgrowth of that, Clark said, is the Fundraising System service, a searchable data base that lists resources for financial support, corporations that traditionally give money to charities.

"Very shortly we'll be launching the Voter's Guide on line," he said. The service will be provided in partnership with the Public Agenda Foundation. "We'll have information about all the leading issues in the presidential campaign, examined from all sides by people from all political perspectives."

On the web, the site address is <http://www.accesspt.com>. AOL [keyword: access.point] users can order a special disk to get access to the web services. For information call 1-800-879-1185.

"We also develop sites for organizations who want to be on AOL or the web," said Clark. "We have a wide variety of groups."

A small sampling of the organizations communicating through access.point includes the National Urban League, the National Parks and Conservation Association, Youth Services of America.

"These organizations can take advantage of technology and make it work for people," said Clark.

New dining concept will offer a taste of adventure

SUZIE REED

Staff Reporter

Central Lake County is preparing to welcome back an old friend when Eddie Bauer Jr. presents a "new concept" in food service. In fact, his ideas for the restaurant are so innovative, he hasn't made a final decision of what to call it.

Residents who remember the great taste of meat from Eddie's Meat Market on Center St. in Grayslake, will enjoy it once more in a full-service restaurant close to where the butcher shop once stood. Bauer purchased the facility at the corner of Center and Whitney streets and has been working to bring it up to his exacting standards.

The historical building, site of a former bank a century ago, will offer both a country buffet and fine dining along with lessons in local lore. The building needed a lot of TLC, paint and new equipment, said Bauer, and prompted an extra special cleaning effort. Patrons of the former eatery will see a marked change for the better.

"This is an all-new concept," he explained. "We'll have an elegant country buffet, a salad bar and a dessert table with a sundae bar."

In addition to the lunch and dinner buffet, a full service menu will offer aged steaks, duck, chicken, chops and a variety of seafood. The choices will appeal to families on a budget as well as customers looking for high-end dining, said Bauer. The menu will feature discounts for senior citizens and special children's selections. Nightly specials will include various theme nights for Greek, Mexican, Italian and Polish cuisine.

"We'll have a gourmet counter where people can choose which steak or seafood they want," he said. "I would like to get into tableside cooking. I want to be adventurous."

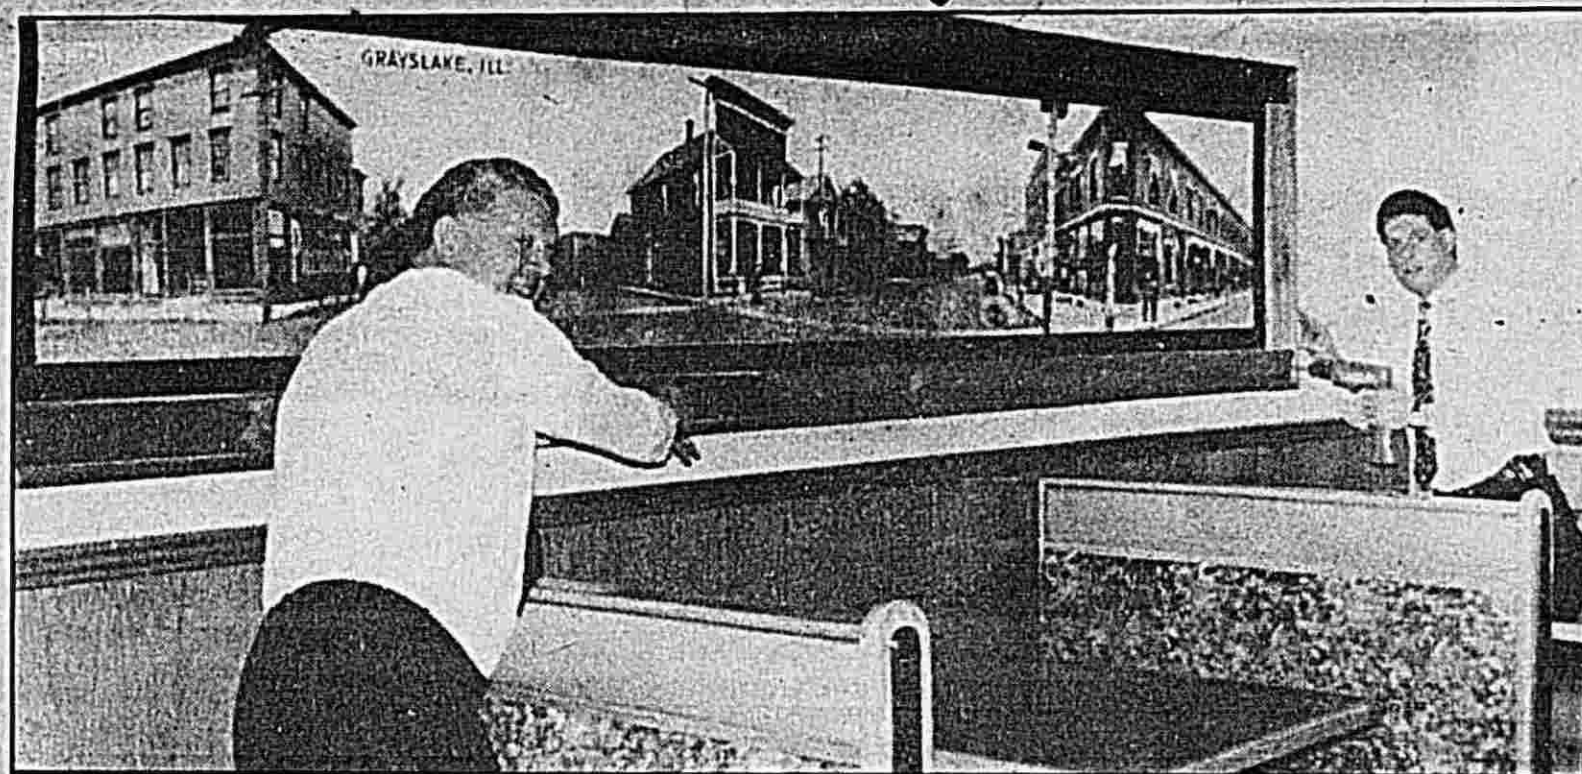

Take-home items will include salads and cuts of meat that can be smoked or cooked on the premises. Steaks will be cut there as well.

Bauer hopes to get approval for a liquor license and has plans for a bar in the back room (smoking section). Booths there will feature many historic motifs that highlight the rich past of the area: the "5 & 10," the old bowling alley, Hooks Drug Store, Rockenbach Chevrolet and, of course, Parkway Foods, started in 1961 by Eddie Sr.

"I haven't been this motivated in a long time," said Bauer, "I'm really geared up for the historical part."

The Grayslake Historical Society has been a great help, he said, but if anybody in the area has old pictures or artifacts they would loan for display, he'd like to hear from them. Diners will even find some historical gems on the placemats.

Bauer is at home all over Lake County. He spent his early years in Ingleside, lived in Grayslake for a while, then Libertyville, Lake Forest and Lindenhurst. His current home in Glenview is conveniently located. See DINING page C3

West Marine celebrates one year with weekend sale

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

For the past year, boaters who stop in at West Marine on 2 West Grand Avenue in Fox Lake have been getting all they need to keep their boats running smoothly and looking good.

West Marine is celebrating its first anniversary and everything from special paints to other maintenance items have been sold to customers who care about their water craft. Now that boating season is just around the corner, these are again popular purchases, said West Marine manager Jennifer Hossack.

Another hot item at the store right now is the GPS (Global Positioning Device) which comes in either hand-held or mounted models. Both are electronic.

Hossack said other things boaters seem to prefer include fenders which are attached to the outsides of the craft to protect it from any damage when hitting docks.

Below-the-deck galley items are also a hit with seamen and women!

West Marine offers loads of water toys, including water skis. There is also a line of swim suits and casual attire.

As a way of saying 'thanks' to the customers, a special two-day anniversary sale will be held this weekend!

Customers can benefit from savings March 30 and 31. They can save $10 on purchases of $100 or more; $20 on purchases of $200 or more, and $30 on purchases of $300 or more.

"We appreciate all the business [we receive]," said Hossack.

The manager explained the sale is a winning situation for customers. "They're now starting to prepare [for boating], and they can save some money too," Hossack said.

Round Lake ACE unveils new look

A year long remodeling project has been taking place at the Ace Hardware Home Center on Rte. 134 in Round Lake. During the past 12 months, the entire store has been remodeled from wall to wall and ceiling to floor. While it may not look a lot different on the outside, the inside is another story entirely. From one end to the other it's new—new floors, new shelves, new displays and updated and expanded departments to serve your home repair and decorating needs.

During the weekend of March 29 through 31, special events are planned for a Grand Re-opening Celebration. On Friday, March 29, there will be a ribbon cutting ceremony at the store at 11 a.m. Also that day there will be gifts, free popcorn and values galore. On Saturday from 1 to 3 p.m. Tom Waddle, former Bears player will be visiting. In addition, there will be a Stihl Chainsaw carving demonstration. On Sunday, from 1 to 5 p.m. Kevin Butler of the Chicago Bears will be on hand for all the football fans in the area.

Filing down tax-day frustrations

There's only one way to keep tax-time panic in check—collect and organize the information you need to prepare your 1995 tax return now, says the Illinois CPA Society. The better prepared you are when April 15 rolls around, the more likely you are to avoid penalties and last-minute mistakes.

Begin gathering the W-2 forms you received from employers and the 1099 forms from your banks, brokers, and mutual funds. By law, W-2 and 1099 forms must be mailed to you by Jan. 31. Also collect bank and credit card statements, canceled checks and documentation for other sources of income, such as pension benefits, tips, and alimony.

Next, check the information on these forms carefully. If you find a mistake, make sure you correct it before filing your return. When verifying the income shown on your W-2 form, keep in mind that if you contributed to a 401(k) plan, or set aside funds in a flexible medical or dependent care reimbursement account, these contributions already should have been deducted from your gross wages to arrive at your taxable wages (or W-2 income).

Do not wait until April 15 to discover you do not have all the forms you need to prepare your tax return. You may need more than just a 1040 form. For example, if you sold your home, you also would need Form 2119. You can call the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) at 1-800-829-3676 for copies of any forms you need. Or use your computer to download any or all of the more than 500 tax forms now available on the Internet. The telnet address to request these forms is fed-world.gov; modem direct dial: (703)321-8020.

Good records can help you secure the deductions to which you are entitled. First, use last year's tax return and supporting documents to jog your memory for deductions. Then, start gathering the documents you need to support deductions for items like medical expenses, IRA and Keogh contributions, alimony, interest expenses, charitable contributions, and miscellaneous itemized expenses, such as work clothes, tax preparation fees, and investment-related expenses. Make sure you have all the paperwork needed to back up your deductions.

If you are audited, the IRS will no longer accept your canceled checks as proof of large charitable donations. When you give a single gift of $250 or more to a charity, you must have a written receipt from the charity. If you donated property, the receipt must describe precisely what you gave. Also, be sure the charity is one recognized by the IRS by checking IRS Publication 78, Cumulative List of Organizations.

If you sold stock or redeemed mutual fund shares in 1995, you will receive a 1099-B form indicating how much you received. It will be up to you to determine how much you originally paid for these shares. That amount—your cost basis—affects whether you must report the sale as a taxable gain or a capital loss on your 1995 return. If you cannot find your original purchase confirmations, your broker or mutual fund company may be able to provide copies.

Keep in mind that if you reinvested dividends in your mutual fund, they represent an additional investment, and increase the cost basis of your shares. Since you already paid tax on those dividends as you earned them, merely subtracting the original purchase price from the sales price would have you paying taxes on them again. The necessary calculations can get complicated, so allow time to work through the numbers.

CPAs say you can make tax-filing time less frustrating by making every day a tax-preparation day. To learn more about financial record keeping, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Illinois CPA Society and request a copy of the brochure, Taming Your Taxes: 1995 Filing Tips from CPAs.

The Illinois CPA Society is the state professional association representing 26,000 certified public accountants throughout Illinois.

BIR to develop FAA detection system

BIR, Inc. of Lincolnshire is one of the team members chosen to develop a CAT scanning system (x-ray computerized tomography or CT) to detect explosives in checked luggage at airports. Congressman Young of Florida announced that Lockheed-Martin Specialty Components, located in Large, Fla., has been selected by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) as the prime contractor. Work has been approved for the first year of the proposed 22-month project with the expectation of second-year renewal as a non-competing continuation award.

In July of 1995, the FAA issued a solicitation to propose the design and demonstration of a CT-based Explosive Detection System (EDS) for detecting the presence of explosives in luggage checked for transport by commercial airlines. Specialty Components, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Lockheed-Martin Corp., put together a team consisting of companies recognized for their expertise in CT and airport operations. Overall project management and system integration will be the responsibility of Lockheed-Martin Specialty Components. BIR, Inc., located in the Chicago area, and Analogic Corp. in the Boston area, will partner in providing the CT portions of the system. Airport Group International (AGI) of Glendale, Calif., another subsidiary of Lockheed Martin which manages and operates a number of large airports in the U.S. and around the world, will act as an advisor to the project on international airport operations.

The team responded to the FAA solicitation with a proposal for a high-reliability system that will detect explosives based on chemical composition, shape, and other physical characteristics. Explosives' x-ray profiles are recognizable through comparisons with known data, using computer-based algorithms and image analysis techniques.

FAA will provide $8.5 million over the proposed 22-month duration of the project. Upon completion of field and laboratory testing, Lockheed-Martin may then apply for FAA Certification Testing in order to qualify the system for use in airport applications.

How To Survive The Job Search
 By Nancy Sakol

Q: Dear...Search: I am a 27 year old high school graduate. I just moved to the Ingleside area. I have applied for at least 30 positions at mini marts, grocery stores, fast food places and miscellaneous others with not even a call back for an interview. I am not Albert Einstein but am very intelligent, public oriented and hard working. I fill the applications with correct information and just can't comprehend why I don't get a response, but when I go to places that I filled out applications at, they have hired high school aged employees. What can I do? I have many experiences and a family to support. Signed - Clueless

A: Dear Clueless: In reading your letter, I had several questions that made it nearly impossible for me to formulate an opinion on what seemed to be the trouble. First, you say you have just moved to the Ingleside area. When is "just"? Are you giving yourself a fair amount of time? Next, I see the pattern of places that you are applying for employment, which leaves me asking the question, what have you been doing for the past several years, and where have you been employed? Without having any employment history on you, it leaves me in a position to guess what the problem may seem to be. For instance, if you have been a mechanic for the past five years, I could understand why a mini mart may opt to hire someone with the cash handling and customer service ability. You say that you are "very intelligent". Are you selling yourself short with the positions you are applying for? What about your appearance and demeanor when applying for a job? Do you make a good first impression? You sound as though you have a sense of urgency to find employment. Without knowing your work history, for me to evaluate your situation would be like a doctor giving you a diagnosis before an examination. I would be happy to set up an appointment for you at one of our facilities. Give us a call.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy at 4949 Grand Ave., Gurnee, IL 60031.

PET OF THE WEEKOreo

"Oreo" is a black, male Chow mix, about two years old. A smaller mid-size, Oreo has a white bib, white toes, and a slightly shaggy, soft coat. Oreo's first owner docked his tail and chopped his ears, whether for convenience or a misguided sense of "fashion," it's hard to say. But we doubt that love motivated this kind of mutilation. Fortunately for Oreo, he has a beautiful face, a heart of gold, and isn't bitter about his shabby treatment. Oreo appears to be housebroken. He has a calm, docile personality, and is easy-going, affectionate and very friendly. We think it's about time that Oreo had the chance to put a sad past behind him, and to find at last, a good friend and a loving place to call home. He has waited patiently since April 1994, in Cage 49.

RENKEN The Renken is a spacious, elegant home, designed to meet the needs of couples who like to entertain. It includes 3609 square feet of living space, with an additional 832 in the combination garage/shop, with a built-in workbench and cabinets to hold tools and materials. There is a darkroom in the garage, allowing for easy unloading of supplies.

The front facade is formal and majestic. Two tremendous columns support a regal, high gabled porch, creating an elegant entrance mezzanine. Off to the right, flourishing greenery spills down graceful sloping planter walls that surround the patio.

Interesting angles abound throughout the house. The vaulted dining room is octagonal in shape and has French doors that open onto the landscaped patio. The parlor is a modified octagon and the rest of the rooms defy classification.

The main gathering spot in the home, the vaulted family room, is quite generous. Sliding glass doors open onto a substantial back patio, where summertime will find you at the barbecue.

The kitchen adjoins the family room and allows the cook to take part in the conversations during family gatherings. Kitchen features include a work island, an eating bar, cooktop, built-in ovens, microwave, dishwasher, and walk-in pantry.

The utility/hobby room includes a sewing area, pull-down ironing board, trash compactor, and space for a freezer. This room is large enough to accommodate the various materials needed for a multitude of crafts.

Guests will have the feeling of home when visiting. The two guest suites are large and private. Guest suite two has a living area and a private entrance. It could be used as an in-law's suite, or a college student's area, with access to the rest of the house.

The master suite is nothing short of elegant. Luxury amenities include a walk through closet, office area, and controls for a security system. The master bath features a raised spa tub, oversized shower, twin basins and a vanity for the lady of the house.

For a study kit of the RENKEN (402-33), send $10.00, to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-LP60, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number). For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Easing Your Tax Burden

Helpful information on divorce, separation and taxes

ROBERT W. BROCK
IRS District Director

Divorced and separated taxpayers encounter unique tax problems and situations. They are faced with questions like—who gets to claim the children as exemptions, which filing status should I use, is this money considered alimony, and how do we handle property settlements?

The most common question the Internal Revenue Service is asked by divorced or separated parents is, "Who can claim the children as dependents?" The general rule is that the custodial parent is treated as having provided over half of the child's total support. This means the custodial parent can claim the child as a dependent, if the other dependency tests are also met.

However, custodial parents can agree not to claim the child as an exemption by filing Form 8332, "Release of Claim to Exemption for Child of Divorced or Separated Parents." The noncustodial parent attaches the signed form to his or her return, and can claim the child as a dependent. Additional information on this issue is available in your tax package.

And don't forget, you're now required to have a Social Security Number for each dependent claimed on your return that was born before Nov. 1, 1995. If you need an SSN, contact your local Social Security office and ask for Form SS-5, "Application for a Social Security Number Card."

Also, double check to make sure the names and SSNs you enter on your tax return match the names and SSNs shown on the social security cards. Do not use nicknames. If a name changed due to a divorce, contact the Social Security office and change your records. Failure to include an SSN or entering an incorrect SSN will delay your refund.

The answer to the filing status question will partly depend on your marital status on the last day of the tax year. If you are unmarried, your filing status is single, or if you meet certain requirements, head of household. You are considered unmarried for the whole year if you obtained a final decree of divorce or separate maintenance by the last day of the tax year, or if you obtained a decree of annulment.

If you are separated but have not obtained a final decree of divorce or separate maintenance by the last day of the tax year, you are considered married for the whole year. An interlocutory decree is not a final decree.

Divorced individuals sometimes pay or receive alimony. Alimony is a payment to a spouse or former spouse under a divorce or separation agreement. It does not include payments that are voluntary.

Alimony can be deducted by the payer and must be included as income by the recipient. Only cash payments now qualify as alimony. Child support payments and noncash property settlements are never considered alimony, and are not taxable or deductible.

In the case of property settlements, a taxable gain or loss on the transfer of property between spouses or former spouses is not recognized if the transfer is made because of a divorce. You may, however, have to report the transaction on a gift tax return. If the property you owned jointly is sold in order to split the proceeds as part of your property settlement, you must each report your share of the gain or loss on the sale.

I know this is a complicated subject. If you would like more information, consult the free IRS Publication 504, "Divorced or Separated Individuals." We'll mail it to your home free of charge. Just call toll-free at 1-800-829-3676.

Young fishermen real winners in benefit hoops

The score was a lopsided one as Round Lake area policeman regained the Kauffman Kup with a 12-point win over the firemen in the teams' 11th annual benefit basketball game.

But as the final food deals were being announced at Round Lake High's gym — anything for a quarter — the winners were not those smiling with the trophy in March, but those with the fishing poles in June. The Round Lake Youth Fishing Derby benefits financially when the police and firemen clash in this friendly game of hoops.

"It is hard to believe this is the 11th year. I always say I pull for both teams and the kids. They are the winners. We are putting kids first," Rev. Lisle Kauffman said in pre-game remarks.

Before the game, there was still plenty of support for the "Hosers" to defend their crown. Mike Pederson and Pat Andrews put together a pro-firemen sign.

"They deserve it," Andrews said.

"They practice," Pederson commented.

But the police, with youth on their side, gained 30-point leads before settling for a 62-50 "Oinkers" win.

"It is the revenge factor. This is for the kids and the bragging rights for another year," Round Lake Beach policeman Doug Westerman said.

He mentioned the police had two rookies on the team.

"I had a real good time — this is my first year," John Galason of Round Lake Beach's force said.

The first game was held in 1984 and was organized by Myron Bentz and Dan Velt of Round Lake Park Police Department. The first effort raised money for a young boy's liver transplant.

"We tried to play games against community organizations, but none had the draw of the police-fire competition," Velt wrote in the game program.

After a two-year break, the game resumed in 1987 with the focus on raising money for the Kids Fishing Derby, co-sponsored by the F.O.P. Lodge 97 and the Round Lake Area Fire Department.

"The focus of the game became such a positive one for the community and both events got special mention when we received the Governor's Hometown Award in 1989," Vic Ligenza of Round Lake Beach police said.

Last year, Jim Wodrich of the fire department team made what has become known as "The Shot," an outside buzzer-beating perimeter special which wrestled the crown away from the "Oinkers".

Members of the "Oinkers" who regained the bragging rights at the Round Lake High game include: Bruce Johnson and Tina Williams of Round Lake Park; and Freddie Usmiller, Gary Bitler, Steve Markiewicz, Karen Anderson, "America" Escamilla, Dave Hare, Rob Salazar and Don Gardiner of the Round Lake Beach staff.

Bass fishermen find favorite lures limiting

It may come as a surprise to many, but when the pros are practicing for competition, the first patterns they try to eliminate are their favorites.

"I always start with either a jig or spinner bait," explained John Outboards Pro Staff angler Ron Shuffield. "At the same time I'm trying to try to eliminate them as patterns, I'm also trying to establish them."

"I have more confidence in jigs and spinner baits than any other lures, and if I can find bass that will hit them during a tournament, then that's what I'd rather use."

This technique is known as fishing to a strength, and it is practiced by most of the tournament pros. Being able to catch bass on a favorite lure adds confidence that can often lead to increased success.

"I think I'm very fortunate in that using a jig is one of my strengths," said Shuffield. "It isn't an easy lure to really gain confidence in, so not that many anglers throw them as much as I do. At the same time, it's hard to find a lake where the bass won't bite a jig at least part of the time."

On the other hand, many anglers rate spinner baits as their favorite lures, but there are many times when bass don't seem inclined to hit them.

"Spinner baits are what we call 'power baits,'" said Shuffield, "while jigs are 'finesse baits.' For bass to hit a faster moving power bait, they have to be fairly active, but with a slow moving finesse bait the bass don't have to be active at all. In fact, most of the time bass are not necessarily active, which gives me an advantage with the jig."

Shuffield explains that the philosophy of being a good fisherman with all lures is not followed as strongly by professional anglers today as it was a few years ago.

"I believe the reason is because we're becoming more and more lure conscious every year," said Shuffield. "We're learning new methods of fishing the same old lures, new ways to present them and new ways to work them more efficiently. We're discovering most lures are really more versatile than we thought they were."

"Lure manufacturers are helping, too, by creating more variations of the same lures. For example, jigs today have rattles and more life-like skirts, and spinner baits have far more blade combinations. You can do a lot more with lures today than in the past, which is why you're seeing more specialists among the pros."

New course set for Chicago triathletes

The 14th annual Mrs. T's Chicago Triathlon, the world's largest with some 4,000 professional and amateur triathletes, has moved from its traditional late August date to Sunday, July 14.

"With Chicago hosting the August '96 Democratic Convention and a summer schedule filled with downtown festivals and conventions, mid-July was a good alternate," said Jan Caille of CAPRI Events, the event producer. "The NSGA World Sports Expo is also in town that weekend and the association seems a natural."

The course is also new this year, with the swim at Ohio Street Beach, the biking on North Lakeshore Drive between Randolph and Lawrence Ave., the run in the lakefront park and the finish on Monroe St. between Columbus and Lakeshore Drive.

"Considering all the construction on Lakeshore Drive and the challenges of staging any large public event on a busy summer weekend in Chicago, this is a great course for both participants and spectators," said Caille.

The triathlon will be contested in two distances. The sprint distance features a .75k swim, followed by a 24k bicycle ride and a 5k run. The olympic distance includes a 1.5k swim, a 40k bicycle ride and a 10k run.

For the first time in the event's history, the producers have set a field limit of 4,000 athletes. This year the professional triathletes will start last and finish with a two-lap criterium run in front of thousands of spectators. The professionals will be competing for $40,000 in prize money.

The Mrs. T's Chicago Triathlon this year plays host to the USA Triathlon Junior B Regional Championship. The race is also an Olympic Distance Qualifier for the 1996 Gatorade Ironman triathlon held in Kona, Hawaii. Thirty-two Ironman slots will be awarded to triathletes competing in the Chicago event.

For general information and entry forms, call CAPRI Events at (312) 404-2372.

SODA race makes holiday memorable

The Chevrolet Memorial Day 100, the first race of the SODA ten-race schedule, will be held at the Lake Geneva Raceway on May 25-26.

The Memorial Day 100 is the oldest short course off-road race in the world. The Lake Geneva Raceway will continue to expand the programs that keep the Chevrolet Memorial Day 100 in an elite group of off-road races that can truly be called national.

Over 200 competitors in 18 different classes will go head-to-head on Lake Geneva's challenging 1.25 mile race course set up by Kevin Dawson, the event's promoter.

The Lake Geneva Raceway is the home track for Kevin and Jeff Probst, Chuck Johnson, Geoff Dorr and Scott Taylor, the members of the Ford Rough Riders team.

This year's event will draw nationally known drivers and teams from all over the country, including: Walker Evans (Dodge); Jack Flannery (Chevrolet); Art Schmitt (Nissan); Mike Lesle; Steve Kelley; and many others.

The Chevrolet Memorial Day 100 race is one of eight races on SODA's schedule that will be televised on ESPN and ESPN2. Marty Reid Productions, in conjunction with ESPN, will film the races airing on ESPN and a separate one-hour race program for ESPN2. The race was watched by over 1.1 million people last year.

In addition to SODA points and promoter and manufacturer awards, drivers in televised classes IV, VII and VIII will also compete for the prestigious True Value Pro Points Cup and the year-end purse. True Value will also sponsor other racing classes.

For more information, please contact the Lake Geneva Raceway at (414) 248-8566.

Bowling becomes 'cosmic'

An explosive new recreation phenomenon that CNN profiled as "a place to shake, rattle and roll" made its debut in Waukegan at Brunswick Lakehurst Bowl this month.

Cosmic Bowling is a futuristic bowling experience that includes laser light shows, fog machines, music from a new state-of-the-art sound system and glow-in-the-dark pins and other center equipment that transforms an existing bowling center into a glow-in-the-dark party.

"Cosmic Bowling offers something exciting for everyone," said Gary Humphries, general manager of Brunswick Lakehurst Bowl. "It's a game, concert, an arcade, a light show, a dance party and regular bowling, all rolled into one event."

Developed exclusively by Brunswick, Cosmic Bowling is currently being installed in many of the company's bowling centers throughout the U.S. and Canada. A recent CNN Future Watch segment described Cosmic Bowling as a new style of bowling where "everyone's having a ball." The program featured Brunswick Cedar Creek Lanes in Atlanta, one of the company's first test centers for the new concept.

Brunswick Lakehurst Bowl plans to offer Cosmic Bowling every Tuesday at 10 p.m. and Fridays at midnight. In addition, Cosmic Bowling will be available for parties sponsored by companies, organizations, schools and youth groups.

Leitza garners hockey award

The St. Cloud State University Husky Hockey Awards were announced at the Huskies annual banquet held in St. Cloud, Minn.

Sophomore goaltender Brian Leitza of Lake Villa and senior wing Kelly Rieder were named Co-MVP's of the team. Leitza recorded his third and fourth career shutouts this season. He also set season records for most saves with 993 and most shots faced with 1,124.

Van Alstine earns letter for Knox College basketball team

Chris Van Alstine, Knox Class of '99, from Island Lake (Wauconda High School), has earned a varsity letter for the 1995-96 Knox College Prairie Fire basketball team.

A 6-foot 4-inch post, Van Alstine was a member of the junior varsity team.

"Chris's hard work and enthusiasm allowed him to develop into the college game," said Knox Coach Tim Heilmann. "He was an integral part of a very successful team that won all but one junior varsity contest—and that one by just one point."

Van Alstine is the son of Dale and Patricia Van Alstine, also of Island Lake.
